BONUS BILL, VETOED BY PRESIDENT, IS RETURNED TO CONGRESS

Favorable Action by House Looked for —Senate Expected to Sustain Veto
—Harding in Accord With Purpose
But Sees No Means Provided to Finance Measure—Text of Message

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The house passed the soldiers' bonus bill today over President Harding's veto.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The soldiers' bonus bill, vetoed yesterday by President Harding, was to be started today on a second voyage through congress.

Favorable action by the house was looked for generally, but friends of the measure doubted that they could muster in the senate the two-thirds majority necessary to override the veto. The plan was to call up the bill in the house soon after noon and to have a roll call after an hour or two of debate.

The time of senate action was indefinite. Some favored the final test of strength immediately after the house vote, but others and those included several of the republican leaders, counseled delay until tomorrow.

FORMAL INQUIRY INTO KILLINGS

Investigation of Murder of Rev. Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills Continues

House Near Spot Where Bodies Were Found May Have Been Trysting Place

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 20.—Inquiry into the killing last week of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, rector of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, and his choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills, wife of the church sexton, was centered today in the theory that an abandoned farm house near the spot where the bodies were found Saturday night might have been used by the slain couple as a trysting place. Officers of Somerset and Middlesex counties, whose grand juries yesterday began a formal inquiry into the tragedy, were expected to cause

PEASE HELD FOR WIFE'S MURDER

Husband of Woman Whose Body Was Found in Ocean Yesterday, Detained

Arraigned in Chelsea Court and Held Without Bail on Murder Charge

CHELSEA, Sept. 20.—Arthur H. Pease of Beachmont, 46 years old, was held without bail in Chelsea district court today on a charge of murder while the police continued their investigation into the death of Mrs. Maude Pease, his 51-year-old wife. The woman's body with a cut in the throat, was found in the ocean, off Short beach, yesterday.

The case was continued until Wednesday of next week at the request of Chief of Police John J. Dyer of Beverly, who said he was awaiting the official report of Medical Examiner Geo. J. Magrath of Boston. The chief said he also desired to investigate further the evidence in the case.

Ind. $3,400 in Cash

The police found $3,400 in cash, drawn from a Jynna bank, in Pease's pocket. He said the money represented a trust fund which he was saving for Matthew Ennis, Mrs. Pease's uncle, who acted as caretaker of their home. Ennis told the police that Pease owed him nothing.

A razor, found in the Pease kitchen, was in the custody of Medical Examiner Magrath. He said he was waiting for the results of a chemical analysis of the blade and handle to determine whether or not it had been used in the murder or suicide had been committed there.

Branch of Promise Sult

The police today were supplied with the information that Pease had been made the defendant in a breach of promise suit for $15,000 filed by Mrs. Katherine Brown of Beachmont, who alleged that he was the father of her child, born soon after Pease was married two months ago. Mrs. Brown, the police said, informed them that Mrs. Pease had her hospital expenses at the time of her recent illness.

Pease, who had difficulty in identifying the body found on the beach yesterday as that of his wife, told the police that he and Mrs. Pease had retired about 10 o'clock Monday evening but that when he awoke at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning, she was gone.

Kemalists to Ignore French High Commissioner and Open Drive For Possession of Dardanelles

AUTHORIZED TO CONTINUE WAR

Turkish Nationalists Assembled Extends Dictatorship of Mustapha Kemal Pasha

Authorizes Him to Continue War Until All Conditions in Pact Are Achieved

Agreement Between Great Britain and France on Near Eastern Problem Assured

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 20.—(By the Associated Press) The Turkish Nationalists assembly at Angora by an overwhelming majority has extended the dictatorship of Mustapha Kemal Pasha and has authorized him to continue the war until all the conditions prescribed in the National pact have been fully achieved.

French Withdraw Troops
LONDON, Sept. 20.—(By the Associated Press) Official confirmation was received here today from Constantinople stating that the French had withdrawn their troops from Chanaq and that the Italians were apparently doing the same thing. The British force is remaining alone at that point.

Reach Agreement at Paris
PARIS, Sept. 20.—An agreement between Great Britain and France on the Near Eastern problem, seemed reasonably assured after a two and one-half hour conversation between Premier Poincare and Lord Curzon, British foreign secretary, at the French foreign office this forenoon.

The two ministers outlined to each other at great length the views of their governments and considerable progress was believed to have been made toward an understanding. Lord Curzon is understood to have informed Mr. Poincare that Great Britain would insist upon the absolute freedom of the Straits of the Dardanelles and would insure this freedom by the presence of a large fleet. The British foreign secretary, however, is said to have intimated that the British military effort in the Near East would be confined to the navy, which gave rise to the impression that British troops would soon be withdrawn from Chanaq.

Premier Poincare informed Lord Curzon that the French policy was decidedly pacific. Its chief aim being to make peace as soon as possible, it urged the immediate calling of a peace conference for final settlement on the basis of the Turkish remaining on the Asiatic side of the straits pending the outcome of the conference. The two ministers were in agreement on the necessity of maintaining the freedom of the straits, although it is understood there may be some differences of opinion as to the character of the control to be exercised.

LOWELL MAN GETS LONG SENTENCE

Salah Omar of Lowell, tried in this city some time ago for assault on Sophie Kasilo, yesterday received a three to seven-year sentence in state prison following a plea of guilty before a grand jury in Cambridge.

LARGE PAYROLL

The city payroll for this week is the second largest of the year a total of $46,402.10 being listed for payment. This is an increase over last week's payroll, which was $41,818.93, by $4,583.17. Although the increase in all departments is pretty general the biggest item is one of $2,942 which went towards paying the precinct officers. Generally this amount is between $150 and $200. The streets, buildings and police departments showed increases ranging from $200 to $500.

The important watch and clock works of Lar Chaux-de-Fonds, Switzerland, have taken up the manufacture of locomotives.

EYE WITNESS OF DISASTER

U. S. Consul General Declares Smyrna Catastrophe Worst in History

Pays High Tribute to Work of Americans in Helping Refugees

ATHENS, Sept. 20.—By the Associated Press—"During my consularship at Saloniki, I was bombed by Bulgars and Germans and during my official career, I have had many rough experiences with submarines and fire, but never in my life have I seen anything like the Smyrna catastrophe," is the manner in which George Horton, the American consul general at Smyrna, in his first remarks of the disaster summed up to the Associated Press his experiences in Asia Minor.

Consul General Horton explained that his official position prevented his commenting on the incidents in Smyrna but said it was his duty to speak of the splendid heroism and self-sacrifice of the American colonists in Smyrna.

"Thousands of refugees, in the despairing city were absolutely hungry and destitute. Rufus W. Lane, an American engaged in Smyrna, spoke up on one occasion and said that they had not come to the meeting to look out for their own safety, but to look out for those of the starving people. Francis W. Blackley, another American, agreed in this and gave 200 Turkish pounds to start a subscription list for the refugees. Stanley W. Smith of the Standard Oil Co., in Smyrna, gave 500 Turkish pounds.

BAD FOR PIGS BUT ALL RIGHT FOR HUMANS

Domitick Dias, who was arrested by the liquor squad last night when they made a raid on his house and found a flourishing moonshine plant in full operation, was arraigned in district court this morning on the charge of illegal keeping. At the request of the defendant the case was continued to Oct. 4 and the court set bonds at $300.

The officers swooped down on the man's house and seized a still, a quantity of moonshine in jugs and earbays, a condenser and about 200 gallons of prepared mash. The mash, according to the officers, was guaranteed to kill pigs but was plenty good enough to manufacture into beverages for consumption by human beings. Pigs is pigs, and Dias refused to feed the mash to his porcine herd when the suggestion was offered by the police instead of destroying it. Dias vetoed the suggestion, saying, the officers allege, that it would knock them out. It was another question with him as far as the manufacture of moonshine from this material was concerned as he was evidently of the opinion that it was good enough for some people to drink. And then it was, worth money to him as liquor but wasn't when used as feed for his pigs. When Domitick refused to give the mash to his swine, the officers quickly destroyed it. Sergeant Winn and Officers Conroy and Moore and Federal Officers Holt, Sullivan and Bowers participated in the raid.

FIGHTING IS IMMINENT

Turks to Take Advantage of Fact That British Have Not Yet Massed Forces

British, However, Are Determined to Hold the Straits at All Cost

Turkish Forces Reported to Have Already Invaded Neutral Zone

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 20.—(By the Associated Press) Information that Mustapha Kemal Pasha is preparing to launch an attack for the possession of the Dardanelles in spite of the exhortations of General Pella, French high commissioner, is causing undisguised anxiety in allied military circles in the capital. It is not improbable that such an attack will be made before the end of the present week. It is stated, the Turks taking advantage of the fact that the British have not yet concentrated all their forces.

Believe Fighting Imminent
The British, however, are declared to be determined to hold the straits at all cost, regardless of how formidable the Kemalists forces may be, and regardless also of whether France and Italy participate in the defense.

One of the best evidences of the British determination to resist the Turks is the fact that many British subjects, including the families of officers, are leaving the city, showing that they believe the fighting is imminent.

Angora Government Warned
It is understood here, that the French cabinet warned the Angora government of the inadvisability of an assault on the neutral zone, but the Kemalists are believed to have replied that the proposed attack is in the nature of a defensive and protective movement in view of Great Britain's military preparations in support of her alleged policy of depriving Turkey of Thrace.

The Kemalists are in dangerous proximity to the neutral zone, and will forward movement on their part will be determined to hold the straits at all cost.

BIDS OPEN FOR BRIDGE IN LUNDBERG STREET

Bids were opened this noon in the city's engineer's office for a new bridge on Lundberg street with five concerns submitting estimates. The board of public service will meet later for the purpose of awarding the contract. The appropriation for the work was $60,000, but three of the five bidders were well below this figure, while the other two were considerably above it. The lowest bidder was Z. A. Houle of this city, who submitted a figure of $41,358 for the total cost. Second lowest was the McMillan-Marshall company of Pittsburgh, with offices in Boston, with a bid of $45,761. Next was the Boston Bridge company, whose figure was $52,008. The $5,000 deposit checks of these three bidders were held and it is thought that one of them will receive the contract later in the day.

The English construction company of this city submitted a bid of $76,700 and William Draper turned in a figure of $78,724. The specifications call for the completion of the work by December 31 of this year. Mr. Thorndike of the firm of Fay, Spofford & Thorndike of Boston, consulting engineers, was present and will meet with the board.

Indo-China is covered with a complete radio telegraphic system, comprising 15 stations equipped with the latest high-powered apparatus.

CITY AWAITS DEDICATION OF NEW AUDITORIUM TOMORROW

Raising of National and City Flags at 1 O'Clock Will Be First Ceremony of Day—Vice Presidential Salute of 19 Guns Will Roar Welcome to Coolidge in Mid-Afternoon—Retreat Formation at 5 P. M.—Exercises at 8 O'Clock With Distinguished Men as Speakers and Guests.

With high national, state and military executives in attendance to lend dignity and color to the occasion, the Lowell Memorial Auditorium will be formally dedicated tomorrow evening at exercises which will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. It is expected that 4000 people will be in attendance.

Anticipating the significance of the occasion, decorations have begun to appear on the exteriors of many buildings. The Cadillac and Buick buildings already have been artistically festooned with flags and red, white and blue bunting, while the fronts of the Howe and Fairbairn buildings in the square, also are being decorated.

The program of the day, however, is not confined to the exercises of the evening, for it will embrace a fitting reception to His Excellency Calvin Coolidge, vice president of the United States, as he arrives by train at 4:40 p. m., including the vice presidential salute of 19 guns to be fired in one salvo by the Lowell battery, stationed on the Highland street level of the South common.

The first ceremony preceding the dedicatory exercises, however, will take place at approximately 1 o'clock, when the national emblem and the city flag will be run up to the peaks of the two flag poles that are embedded in granite bases on either side of the main Auditorium entrance.

Participating in this ceremony will be members of the Grand Army of the Republic, veterans of the Spanish war, World War Veterans of the American Legion, and other distinguished guests.

Bolivia and Chile Near Break

GENEVA, Sept. 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Relations between Bolivia and Chile are such that grave difficulties threaten unless the mediation of a friendly power, or the arbitration of the League of Nations can be secured. This declaration is made in a letter received by the secretary of the league assembly from Alfredo Gutierrez, Bolivian delegate to the assembly.

Bolivia has been unable to reach an understanding with Chile by direct negotiation regarding revision of the treaty of 1904, the latter declared, adding, "It is obvious that an arrangement between Bolivia and Chile presents grave difficulties unless the mediation of a friendly power or the arbitration of the League of Nations can be secured."

PARKING AUTOMOBILES

Plans Complete for Parking and Traffic Regulation at Auditorium
Careful arrangements have been made for the parking of automobiles and the regulation of all traffic in the vicinity of the Auditorium tomorrow evening. From 6 p. m. the police department will restrict any parking whatsoever on both sides of East Merrimack street, from Fayette to Davidson streets, leaving that area open for easy passage of vehicles in both directions.

The main parking area will be in Brown street, which will be marked off by white stall lines. If additional space is necessary, one side of Stackpole street and one side of the Fayette street extension also will be utilized. Uniformed traffic officers will be on the job early to direct all traffic by the building and to guide machines that wish to unload passengers at the entrance.

Again, the warning is given, that persons attending the exercises should arrive as early as possible. The doors will open at 7 o'clock.

PLOT TO WRECK RAIL UNIONS

Counter Charges of Conspiracy to Rail Heads to Destroy Unions Presented

Jewell Lays Blame for Strike at Door of Association of R. R. Executives

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Counter charges of a conspiracy of railway executives to destroy rail unions were injected into the proceeding by the defense when the hearing on the government's rail strike injunction was continued today before Judge James H. Wilkerson.

The charge of a conspiracy to destroy the railroad unions made in an affidavit by B. M. Jewell, head of the shop organizations was offered to charges by Attorney General Daugherty that the rail strike was a conspiracy against interstate commerce.

In his affidavit Mr. Jewell laid the blame for the strike at the door of the Association of Railway Executives. Twenty-five rail heads linked together in the operation of 29 class one roads with a truckage of 211,250 miles or 83 per cent of the country's entire mileage, were specifically mentioned as responsible for conditions leading to the strike. Of these 25, there were eight named as a group forming "the inner circle of the financial combine." They were named as follows: Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific and director in 12 railroads; William Rockefeller (now dead) director in 11 roads; H. W. DeForest, New York lawyer and capitalist and director in 11 roads; A. L. Smith, president of the New York Central, director in 11 roads; G. F. Baker, president of the First National bank of New York, director in 10 roads; H. S. Vanderbilt, director in 10 roads; Samuel R. New, president of the Pennsylvania system, and L. E. Larr, president of the Delaware & Hudson railroad.

What is said to be the largest fresh water ferry in the world is being built for service between Detroit, Mich., and Windsor, Ont.

Radiographs

Get More Eggs — By Radio!

By N.E.A. Service
WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 20.—Give your hens free radio concerts and increase their egg production.

John G. Gaskill, Junior, champion poultry raiser of this county, offers this advice.

Music has solved young Gaskill's problems and he says it will do likewise for other poultrymen. Charmed by the music of his piccolo, 30 hens laid 5049 eggs in seven months, he declares. One of the eggs had three yolks!

The record gave this 16-year-old champion a victory over 59 competitors and made his total poultry prizes 29 in three years.

Music Does It

"Say it with music" is my motto," says Gaskill, explaining his success. "If you can't play, install a radio receiving set and get the broadcast concert music."

"Almost every day I played the piccolo, flute or trumpet to my hens. They enjoyed it and laid more eggs as a result. At first I started to play them a cornet solo, but they seemed to have an aversion for that instrument."

HAROLD E. PEABODY IS RADIO ENTHUSIAST

Among Lowell's vast amateur fraternity of radio enthusiasts is 19-year-old Harold E. Peabody of Mammoth road, who has followed the progress of the radio world with remarkable interest and who himself is a rather advanced student of the game. Long before the radio captivated the American public, Harold Peabody, Sr., had constructed an imposing wireless set on his property and Harold, Jr., readily learned the rudiments of the mysterious but fascinating pastime. With the modern invention of the radio, Mr. Peabody kept abreast of the times and was one of the pioneers of the craze in this city. Again it was like father, like son, and naturally both became extremely interested in the wonders and powers of the electricity of the air. The father's time was so occupied that the younger partner went ahead of his own accord, experimenting with this and with that until today he is the proud possessor of one of the finest and most up-to-date radio apparatus in Lowell.

When the radio was in its infancy,

I really believe this daily musical program was an important factor in my success.

"I believe the time will come when radio amplifiers will be attached to hen houses so the egg production may be increased by wireless telephone concerts from near and far."

Lectures Taboo

Beware of broadcast lectures or singing! This, says this poultry raiser, will decrease egg production. "The hens like instrumental music only. So, if the program calls for a song, tune out the station and search for a violin or orchestral selection from another broadcasting station."

"Any particular selection will do," says Gaskill. "In fact, I am not much of an artist on any of the instruments I play to my hens. Almost any old tune will put the flock in good humor."

For success in the poultry business Gaskill gives five principles:

1. Install electric lights in the hen-coops.

2. Furnish instrumental music to the hens.

3. Give them clear water often.

4. Guard against poultry disease.

5. Keep the coops immaculate.

Young Peabody found that his set was incapable of tuning in waves above 400 or 500 metres, but by the use of leading coils possessing a concentrated inductance value, he built up the wave lengths. A honeycomb coil did the trick. He further experimented with outside aerials but found, through experience, that there was nothing more generally satisfactory than the single wire and when it was found that the available distance was too short two waves were added and the natural wave lengths of the antenna showed an increase. These and other improvements have served to make the Peabody radio station an ideal one, especially for the reception of messages, and if any more features can be added to the radio, the Peabodys, no doubt, will be among the first to take advantage of them.

BETTER RADIO FOR SUBMARINES

By N.E.A. Service
WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Submarines of the United States navy will soon be equipped with the latest improvements in radio.

These improvements are such, say naval engineers, that they will be capable of sending messages up to a radius of 300 miles in the daytime and much farther at night. This is three times the distance spanned by the radio sets now installed in the submarines.

An order for 50 new sets of the latest type has been issued by the navy department. These sets, however, will be formed from old apparatus along a design set up after careful experimentation by the naval radio experts. It will mean a saving of nearly $400,000 in the cost of the sets.

Although detailed specifications of it are withheld it is learned that they are of the latest type of vacuum tube apparatus. Their efficiency, it is said, will vie with those of the German submarines which succeeded in sending messages at night as far as 500 or 1000 miles to their bases.

The new apparatus on the American submarines will be able to receive long-wave signals while the craft is submerged to a depth of about 20 feet.

SENSATIONAL INCIDENTS

Mrs. Tiernan Collapsed Three Times During Severe Cross-Examination

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 20.—Debate over the admissibility of testimony of Prof. John Tiernan, regarding the marital relations of himself and wife is expected to be resumed when hearings are taken up today in the case of Mrs. Augusta Tiernan, wife of the professor, who charges Harry Poulin with the paternity of her 10 months old child.

Testimony of Mrs. Tiernan, which was corroborated by her husband, was to the effect that the couple had discontinued marital relations several months prior to the beginning of the alleged affair between Mrs. Tiernan and Poulin.

Yesterday's hearing, which was taken up for the most part with the testimony of Mrs. Tiernan, was replete with sensational incidents. Three times during the period which Mrs. Tiernan was being subjected to a merciless cross-examination, the witness collapsed, but on being revived, was able to continue. Throughout the trying ordeal, she stood firm and refused to change a single instance of her story of the affair with Poulin.

HEARST DELEGATES ARE BEATEN IN PRIMARY

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Most of the candidate for delegate to the democratic state convention who were pledged to vote for W. R. Hearst for governor were defeated in yesterday's primary.

In Albany county where Patrick E. McCabe, former democratic leader, backed the Hearst delegates, they were defeated by 20 to 1. In Erie county (Buffalo) four Hearst delegates, supported by W. J. Conners, were elected, but 34 of the 35 delegates are classed as followers of W. B. Fitzpatrick, county chairman, and they have declared for Alfred B. Smith for the gubernatorial nomination.

In no other counties was an attempt made to elect Hearst delegates. The organization delegates in Albany county are pledged to the candidacy for governor of former Representative Peter G. Ten Eyck.

In response to a query as to what he believed the Albany county result showed in general on sentiment for Mr. Hearst, Mr. McCabe replied: "I can't say. It's so measly that it seems to me I ought to shut up and say nothing."

In one district in Watervliet city not a single vote was cast for the Hearst delegates.

The organizations of two of the veteran republican leaders of the state, William Barnes of Albany and William L. Ward of Westchester, emerged modestly triumphant from primary contests with insurgents.

EVANGELIST OPENS CAMPAIGN HERE

Rev. Arthur E. Bishop, D.D., evangelist, has opened a three week's campaign for the First Presbyterian church, the Westminster-United Presbyterian church and the Evangelical association of Lowell. The first rally was held in the First Presbyterian church last evening and was largely attended.

The evangelist has already made a good impression by his forceful clarity of expression, easily holding the attention of his hearers. A good many men and women went forward at the close of his address last evening, thanking him for his message. His topic last night was "The Church's Greatest Need—The Power of the Holy Spirit."

The top ed of tonight will be "The Church's Greatest Responsibility." Sunday school night will be celebrated Friday evening, with "Evangelism" for the topic.

KEEP TAB ON TRAFFIC BREAKERS IN N. Y.

(By N.E.A. Service)
NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—New York motorists have resigned themselves to the duty of carrying their photographs with them and counting the increasing number of traffic warnings stamped on their identification cards.

Since August 1, this additional worry has been heaped on automobile owners who are residents of the metropolis.

At first, there was a general howl from all parts of the city. Branding the motorist by photograph was on the whole a new thing. The fingerprint method, they cried. A test case was planned in an attempt to abolish the ordinance. But the city is still enforcing the rule.

Like London

The system is similar to that in force in London, where the driver of a horse-drawn vehicle supplies himself with an identification card, a duplicate of which is on file in the New York traffic bureau. His photograph is placed on each card, and with it is a description of the holder, his license number and other distinguishing facts.

Below his identification there are five blank spaces where record is kept of any minor traffic violation for which he is brought to court. He receives a warning, five of which constitute sufficient cause for summoning the offender to court.

There are 15 minor offenses, the violation of which are noted on these cards. They run anywhere from having a smoking engine to driving too close to a street car.

A policeman stopping a person for such violation enters it on the driver's card and notifies the traffic bureau. There the entry is made on the duplicate card on file.

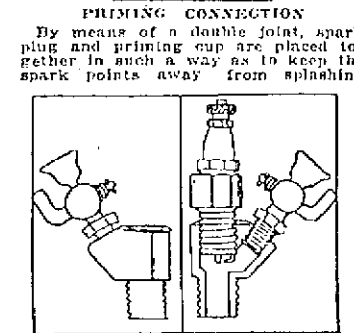

When the card is filed, the motorist is brought to traffic court, where his infractions are reviewed and a penalty is imposed. Then a new card is issued. But a record of previous infractions are made on the new card in the traffic bureau.

In this way, a driver who has been warned too often could be held for a major traffic offense and would be liable to have his license revoked.

What has plagued these subject to this ordinance is the fact that it applies only to residents of the city. Non-residents may procure identification cards for their own convenience, but only a few outsiders have taken advantage of this option.

LOWER RENTS BY AUTO AID

By ALFRED REEVES
General Manager N.A.A.C.C.
Recently, even as critical a mind as Roger W. Babson has pointed out that thousands of persons have been buying motor cars and moving into the suburbs.

A survey of the various real estate boards by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce developed the fact that around 50 cities in the country there are over 135,000 suburban homes depending chiefly on the motor car and the motor truck for transportation.

This release of housing pressure on the cities and the settling of families on less expensive land gives promise of lower rents, a prediction in which many leading economists of the day concur.

CLEAN SPARK PLUGS

When the cylinders pump oil, the spark plugs will foul. A temporary prevention is to attach a half-inch 45-degree L to the cylinder head in place of the spark plug. The plug can then be screwed into the L, so that it is safe from the harmful spray of oil.

R. I. producers. Five different sized sockets in a ball shape at each end are intended to satisfy all purposes for which such a wrench would be needed.

LICENSE COMMISSION

The license commission granted the following licenses at its regular meeting held last night: To sell ice cream on the Lord's day, Ellen Arvanites, 376 Adams street; Christos Andrias, 596 Market street; Margaret McKay, 226 Lincoln street; Yvonne Lizotte, 157 Perkins street; Mrs. Joseph Duffy, 277 Hildreth street; Retail vendor of soft drinks, Lucien P. Gervette, 605 Merrimack street; express, Pierre A. Dussault, 145 Salem street; lodging house, Gille Nadeau, 1340 E. Main street; 40 Ward street. Public amusement for dancing, Central Council, A.O.U., Middle street. Hawker and peddler, Joseph Pilato, 90 Union street.

There are only 183 persons in France with an income exceeding $25,000 at the present rate of exchange.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem THE GARAGE MAN

Oh, motorists, I bid you all observe this individual,
Who never has a bit of time for play;
To judge by bills he tenders you for service that he renders you
There's forty hours in every working day!
In winter-time or clover-time he's always toiling overtime
(At any rate it reads so on the bills),
And yet he bears with bravery this unremitting slavery
And prospers while he goes the pace that kills.

Your motor runs nuzzledly? He looks it over readily,
Then shakes his head and says, with manner bleak,
"We'll have to take the car apart, your gears are running far apart,
Your crankshaft's bent—the job will take a week!"
Complaining very fretfully, you leave the car regretfully,
And when you're gone he takes your piling churn
And runs it for a chug or two, puts in a new spark-plug or two
And—soaks you sixty bucks when you return!

Black grease is on his fingers there. I don't see how it lingers there,
The way he wipes it off upon your paint,
And on your seats, luxurious, but though it's very curious,
His hands retain their black and grimy taint;
We curse his rates burlingous, we knock his notions various,
We say he's only out to gouge and rob,
But when the car runs jumpily and jerkily and grumpily,
Oh, gosh, we're glad to have him on the job!

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By the Theatres' Own Press Agents.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
Comedy that is lively and that will please any audience and music that touches one's deepest feelings are among the signal points of this week's bill at the B. F. Keith theatre. The Royal Vaudeville Five give the music which is so inspiring. Earl Mahoney and Bronson & Edwards offer comedy features. If you have never seen Mahoney don't delay. He is one of the sandest comedians in our little world today, and Bronson & Edwards who close the show are topnotchers. Then there is Marshall Montgomery, unquestionably one of the biggest of ventriloquists. It is a bill fit for a king. Other acts on the bill are Jess Libonati, xylophonist; Max & Gwynne, singers, and Sultan, the trained equine.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
Final performances will be given this evening at the Merrimack Square theatre. "The Veil" by Earl Mahoney, James Oliver Curwood's noted story, starring Alma Rubens. There will be an entire change of program tomorrow afternoon.

Features for Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be "Her Blinded Cage," starring Florida Swanson, a gorgeous runaway of Paris and New York, and "The Seventh Day," starring Richard Barthelmess. The third big attraction is "The Veil," starring Earl Mahoney and Bronson & Edwards.

In Gloria Swanson's new star picture, "The Blinded Cage," a woman who is blind from birth is brought to the attention of the public through the agency of the press and an able publicity agent. In the story, which is a masterpiece of the play by Anne Nichols, David Powell appears as leading man in the role of a blind man. The supporting players are exceptionally well cast. In "The Seventh Day," the other feature for the second half of the week, with Richard Barthelmess in the undistinguished role, a contrast between the lives of people who think that toil is the panacea for all trouble and the lives of those who live in ease and comfort. The story, an original by Porter Emerson Browne, is a simple narrative of the lives of two English lords, one of whom is a simple, sincere man of acting carries conviction. To the isolated, untamed, unbroken even comes a masterly tale of social blunders and snuff who are forced to live away seven days because their engine has broken down.

Even jazz and "put and take" become tiresome and the metropolises start to explore the place at which Kismet has laid their heads. The golden falls madly in love with one of the girls, who, in the annals of luxury, allows him to escort her about. It is just a game to the girl but deadly serious to the boy; and it is the realization of impending crisis that brings out the true disposition of both.

THE STRAND

One man was afraid of women because he had never known them. Another was sick of them because he had known them too well. They decided to isolate themselves from civilization in the northwoods and work out a life of their own. This is a tale of a girl who broke upon their plans and more by a sweet, loving smile made them deadly enemies. But neither man shunned her! "The Strand," starring House Peters, which is the feature picture offering on The Strand program for the week, offers this novel situation. What's the outcome? Well, see the picture and learn. Matt Moore, Virginia Vail and others of screen note are in the cast.

Gladys Walton in "Top of the Morning" is another feature, and Lupino Lane in the great comedy, "The Reporter," is the other.

REALTO THEATRE

An exceptionally strong program adorns the screen of the Realto theatre beginning this afternoon and continuing over tomorrow. The feature introduces a Thomas H. Ince production, entitled "Mother of Mine," with an all-star cast performing. This is a drama of mother love and prison bars and it carries with it an appeal that will go straight to the heart. Other features on the Realto screen for today and tomorrow are Reginald Denny in "Never Let Go," also William Desmond in "Doomed," Johnny Hines in "Torchy's Ghost," and the Pathe News.

DISCUSSED PLANS FOR WINTER COURSES

A number of members of the Morgan club held a dinner last night at the Allardvale farm at which time plans for winter courses were talked over at great length. President John P. Cryan was in the chair.

Dennis A. Dooley, of the university extension department of the Massachusetts state board of education, outlined several courses which he thought would prove beneficial to Lowell people. John J. Morgan, after whom the club was named, and who gave courses in salesmanship and business administration last year, was present and gave a most pleasing talk on his many experiences with the classes here last year. He said that he believed that interest in the courses would be much greater this year if the opportunities presented by them became known to more people.

Hugh J. Molloy, superintendent of schools, was present as a guest and expressed great interest in the work and said that the school department would give assistance in every way possible to promote the educational program.

President Cryan suggested a mass meeting in the high school auditorium at some future date at which the details of the various courses could be presented to the public.

Free Staters Continue Campaign

BELFAST, Sept. 20.—(By the Associated Press)—The National troops continue their vigorous campaign against the Republicans. In the course of a cleanup of county Sligo, in which the Nationals converged from six points upon a village where the republicans had their headquarters, 50 prisoners were taken, together with all their weapons. A drive on the Republican positions in Kinelough and Tulaghan, northern county Leitrim, yesterday, also yielded a large number of prisoners. Two soldiers and two Republicans were shot dead in an ambush Monday night at Dundrum, County Tipperary. A motor driver conveying women and children home, was shot dead near Tralee, County Kerry, and the car seized.

its worth. This is not compensation, but rather a pledge by the congress, while the executive branch of the government is left to provide for payments falling due in ever increasing amounts.

"When the bill was under consideration in the house I expressed the conviction that any grant of bonus ought to provide the means of paying it, and I was unable to suggest any plan other than that of a general sales tax. Such a plan was unacceptable to the congress, and the bill has been enacted without even a suggested means of meeting the cost.

"Indeed, the cost is not definitely known, either for the immediate future, or in the ultimate settlement. The treasury estimates, based on what seems the most likely exercise of the option, figures the direct cost at approximately $145,000,000 for 1922, $225,000,000 for 1923, $114,000,000 for 1924, $114,000,000 for 1925, $114,000,000 for 1926, making a total of $795,000,000 for the first four years of its operation, and a total cost in excess of $1,000,000,000.

"Abuse of Public Credit"

"No estimate of the large indirect

cost ever had been made. The certificate plan, sets up no reserve against the ultimate liability. The plan avoids any considerable direct outlay by the government during the earlier years of the bill's proposed operations, but the loans on the certificates would be floated on the credit of the nation.

"This is borrowing on the nation's credit just as truly as though the loans were made by direct government borrowing, and involves a dangerous abuse of public credit. Moreover, the certificate plan of payment is little less than a certified inability of the government to pay, and invites a practice of sacrificial barter, which I cannot sanction.

Would Add One-Sixth to Public Debt

"It is worth remembering that the public credit is founded on the popular belief in the defensibility of public expenditure, as well as the government's ability to pay. Loans come from every rank in life, and our heavy tax burdens reach, directly and indirectly, every element in our citizenship.

"To add one-sixth of the total sum of our public debt for a distribution among less than 5,000,000 out of 110,000,000, whether inspired by grateful sentiment or political expediency, would undermine the confidence on which our credit is built and establish the precedent of distributing public funds whenever the proposal and the numbers affected make it seem politically appealing to do so.

"Congress clearly appraised the danger of borrowing directly to finance a bonanza which is without obligation and manifestly recognized the financial problems with which the nation is confronted. Our maturing promises to pay within the current fiscal year amount to approximately $4,000,000,000, most of which will have to be refunded. Within the next six years more than $10,000,000,000 of debt will mature and will have to be financed.

"A Perversion of Public Funds"

"These outstanding and maturing obligations are difficult to meet without the complication of added borrowings, every one of which threatens higher interest and delays the adjustment to stable government financing and the diminution of federal taxes to the defensible cost of government.

"It is sometimes thoughtlessly urged that it is a simple thing for the rich to add $1,000,000,000 to its indebtedness. This question comes from the readiness of the public response to the government's appeal for funds amid the stress of war. It is to be remembered that in the war everybody was ready to give his all. Let us recall the comparatively few exceptions. Citizens of every degree of competence loaned and sacrificed, precisely in the same spirit that our armed forces went out for service. The war spirit is needed.

"To a war necessity there was but one answer, but a peace bestowal on the ex-service men, as though the supreme offering could be paid for with cash, is a perversion of public funds, a reversal of the policy which exalted patriotic service in the past and suggests that future defense is to be inspired by compensation rather than consciousness of duty to flag and country.

"Would Wipe Out Economy"

"The pressing problem of the government is that of diminishing our burdens rather than adding thereto. It is the problem of the world. War inflation and war expenditures have unbalanced budgets and added to indebtedness until the whole world is staggering under the load; we have been driving in every direction to curtail our expenditures and establish economies without impairing the essentials of government activities. It has been a difficult and unpopular task. It is vastly more applauded to expect that to deny.

"After nearly seven and a quarter of insistence and persuasion with a concerted drive to reduce government expenditure in every quarter possible, it would wipe out everything thus far accomplished to add now the proposed burden, and it would tend the commitment of economy and saving so essential to our future welfare. "The financial problems of the government are too little heeded until we are face to face with a great emergency. The diminishing income of the government, due to the receding tides of business and attending incomes, has been overlooked momentarily, but cannot be long ignored. The latest budget figures for the current fiscal year show an estimated deficit of more than $50,000,000, and a further deficit for the year succeeding, even after counting upon all interest collections on foreign indebtedness which the government is likely to receive. To add to our pledges to pay, except as necessity compels, must seem no less than governmental folly. Question of Pensions "Inevitably it means increased taxation, which congress was unwilling to levy for the purpose of this bill and will turn us from the course toward economy so essential to promote the activities which contribute to common welfare. It is to be remembered that the United States played a self-seeking part in the World War and pursued an unselfish policy after the cause was won. We demanded no reparation for the cost involved, no payments out of which obligations to our soldiers could be met. I have not magnified the will, ing outlay in behalf of those to whom we have a sacred obligation. "It is essential to remember that a more than 14,000,000,000 pledge to the able-bodied ex-service men now will not diminish the later obligations which will have to be met when the younger veterans of today shall contribute to the rolls of the aged, indigent and dependent. It is as inevitable as that the years will pass, that pension provision for World War veterans will be made, as it has been Continued in Page Six

They are Happy and Well

You Should Be the Same

A LARGE number of women's ailments are not surgical ones. Serious displacements or radical changes have not yet taken place.

A tiny part in a fine clock may become loose and cause the clock to gain or lose. If not attended to in time, the part may fall from its place and cause serious trouble. So it is with women's ailments, they start from simple causes; but if allowed to continue, produce serious conditions.

When the warning symptoms are first noted, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve the present troublesome ailment, and to prevent the development of serious trouble.

Portland, Ind.—"I was troubled with irregularity and constipation and would often have to lie down because of pains. One Sunday my aunt was visiting us and she said her girls took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got well, so mother said she guessed she would let me try it. It is doing me good and I praise it highly. You are welcome to use this letter as a testimonial."—STELLA NEWTON, R. R. No. 8, Portland, Ind.

Baltimore, Md.—"For several months I suffered with severe backache and general weakness. I could not sleep comfortably at night for pains in my back. I found your book at home and after reading it began at once to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have had very good results and some of my girl friends are taking it now. You may use this letter to help other girls as the letters in your book helped me."—ROSE WADSWORTH, 3018 Roseland Place, Baltimore, Md.

Bonus Bill Back to Congress

made for those who served in previous wars. It will cost more billions than I venture to suggest.

Regrets the Disappointment

"There will be justification when the need is apparent, and a rational financial policy today is necessary to make the nation ready for the expenditure, which is certain to be required in the coming years. The contemplation of such a policy is in accord with the established practice of the nation, and puts the service men of the World War on the same plane as the millions of men who fought the previous battles of the republic.

"I confess a regret that I must sound a note of disappointment to the many ex-service men who have the impression that it is as simple a matter for the government to bestow billions in peace as it was to expend billions in war."

"I regret to stand between them and the pitifully small compensation proposed. I dislike to be out of accord with the majority of congress which has voted the bestowal. The simple truth is that this bill proposes a government obligation of more than $1,000,000,000 without a provision of funds for the extraordinary expend-ture which the executive branch of the government must finance in the face of almost financial problems and the complete defeat of our commitment to effect economies."

Appeal to Candid Reflection

"I would rather appeal, therefore, to the candid reflection of congress and the country, and to the ex-service men in particular as to the course better suited to further the welfare of our country."

"These ex-soldiers who served so gallantly in war and who are to be so conspicuous in the progress of the half century before us, must know that unless they can only survive where taxation is restrained from the limits of oppression, where the public treasury is locked against class legislation, but ever open to public necessity and prepared to meet all essential obligations."

Such a policy makes a better country for which to fight, or to have fought, and affords a surer abiding place in which to live and attain.

The misunderstanding or misrepresentation of the situation arises from a confusion of the zone of the Straits as provided in the treaty of Sevres with the neutral zone established by declaration of the allies in May, 1921.

Mustapha Kemal is believed to be in Smyrna, whence it is announced he sent his request for permission to occupy Thrace as recorded in an Associated Press despatch yesterday.

GOLF RECORD ALREADY AT AGE OF 12

By N. E. A. Service
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 19.—Gene Sarazen or some other golf champion of the masculine persuasion may expect to face strong competition on the links within the next few years from a girl, and one not out of her teens, either.

So, at any rate, golf experts say, and their candidate is little Lucille De Long.

LUCILLE DE LONG

Long, a Springfield girl of 12, who has just set a public course record for women here.

Her score for the 18 holes was 53, and she made it as one of a foursome including, besides herself, three of the best public course and club players locally available.

To prove that it was no fluke Lucille played the Country club course of nine holes—well known among golfers as a tough course, too in 41, and recently she made a score of 43 at the Peoria Country club.

The girl has been playing only two years, but she has had the advantage of the coaching of Jim Barnes, the noted golfer, who predicts that she will be in the world's championship class before many more years.

Though only a little mite of humanity, weighing 65 pounds, Lucille has the stamina to go through a grueling match with any player who cares to try conclusions with her. She plays carefully, drives with perfect form and, on the green, puts like a veteran.

TURKEY TRUE TO FORM

The pandering and weak-kneed policies of England and France in practically allowing Turkey to wage continued warfare against Greece with the support of British and French munitions, are in the main responsible for the terrible plight of the foreign nationals today in the Near East.

Some time ago, Dr. A. W. Bartlett, noted relief worker for several years past in the section just ravaged by the Turks, appeared in Lowell and gave the members of the Rotary club one of the most vivid descriptions of Turkish atrocities, supported by actual photographs, that the business men of this city ever listened to. He actually opened the eyes and touched the hearts of these heretofore unfamiliar with Turkish atrocities and Turkish rule. It was an amazing account, in vivid detail, of the oracles of human fiends when all bars are let down.

The Sun has pointed out editorially and in its news columns for many months, the extreme danger of the acts of European nations in assuming that the Turks would go just so far and no farther if allowed to acquire arms and ammunition and outside support. The entire program has been "anything to down the aspirations and aims of the Greeks." And the letting down of the bars that have kept the wily and vengeful Turk in leash for several years, has accomplished exactly what many well-read Greek-American citizens of Lowell and other American cities have long predicted. The result has been published in the news columns of The Sun during the past few days.

It is well that the public at large should understand the real facts. It is written history, in truth, that only the weakness and suppleness of the great foreign powers, pandering to every Turkish whim and demand for the past two years or more and opposing all Greek claims to fair support of their legitimate national demands, is responsible for the outrages and chaos now reported as well as for the war menace which threatens to engulf Europe.

Rev. Dr. James L. Barton, secretary of the American Board of Foreign Missions, desires the support of the United States in joining the demand that the great powers stand firmly against the Turkish further depredations and ravages. His appeal comes a little later, for during the Great War, as our files show, Dr. Barton was leading a force in opposition to an American declaration of war against Turkey and Bulgaria, and also came to the defense of the Turks when the American consulate in Thessalonica was seized and seized by an invading Turkish force. The collection of the missionary organizations regarding their property in the Ottoman dominions was a dangerous influence in the prosecution of the war in the Near East.

Where is the missionary property in Smyrna now? What would become of it in Constantinople if the nationalist Turks were permitted to gain possession of that city?

It is an impressive fact that in now, we believe, fully understood, that the awful massacres and widespread destruction of property in Anatolia, including the loss of American lives and the loss of American property, are the fruits of the weakness and the mistaken pacifism of religious and missionary organizations. As many leading American newspaper editors are today pointing out, religious influences have, unfortunately, played too large a part in the mitigation of the spirit of unpreparedness which is now bearing fruit in national weakness. The powers make the mistake of dealing in a diplomatic way with Turkey, but she never keeps her pledges, never observes the terms of a compact unless she is compelled through fear. In the present instance, force is the only element that will cause the Turks to cease their ravages and their massacre of Christians.

EASIER MONEY NOW

Dispatches from Washington assure us pretty forcibly that easier money conditions have been put into effect. Operations of the war finance corporation. A flood of ready cash in the banks available to farmers at low rates of interest, has made it unnecessary for the government during the last four weeks to extend credit to assist in crop operations.

San readers will recall that it was for the purpose of relieving the credit stringency in the farm belt that the corporation's functions were extended by congress until July 1, 1923. Improved financial conditions may lead to proposals in congress to repeal the authority thus given and end the activity of this organization, except as to its functions of obtaining repayments upon loans already granted.

A splendid sign that a good many American farmers are in better financial circumstances than they were a year ago, is at hand with reports from various states announcing that farmers, co-operative farm organizations and banks through which agricultural credits have been extended, are rapidly repaying outstanding loans obtained from the corporation and relatively few applications for new credits are being received. The corporation's loans since January 1, 1921, when it resumed operations, have aggregated $223,969,969. Repayments since that date on account of all loans have amounted to more than $153,969,660.

Opponents of the plan to aid the great industrial organization of the land (farm) of the nation, evidently have something impressive to think about just now, with the finance corporation reports proving the government's claim that only by loaning funds at a time of dire necessity, could the farmers and co-operative farm organizations actually survive in a time of great necessity, hardship and desperation. The work has been performed in a way that calls for no criticism.

cism, for the most part. It was just as important to aid industrial organizations of this kind, indeed, as it was to loan billions to foreign lands and secure no returns. The "come back" has worked out thus far in the right direction.

PELLETIER SHOULD WITHDRAW

Throughout his trial and more recently in the primaries, the democratic voters of Suffolk county stood loyally by Joseph C. Pelletier. They believed him innocent until proven guilty; but then the sensible people—men who understood the gravity of the case and the weight of a verdict of acquittal—the supreme court of Massachusetts—began to desert him. They felt that they should not compromise their honor or by standing by a convicted official and especially one who could not utter a word in his own defense. To those who began to desert him or to manifest an unwillingness to ignore his conviction and treat him in all respects as if he were acquitted of the charges brought against him, he was insulting and venomous. He even went so far as to call them bad names. It required a long time for Mr. Pelletier to realize that he was actually convicted and expelled from the bar of Massachusetts. It was a sore defeat for a man who stood high in public esteem, but who, unwittingly perhaps, allowed his office to be used to promote the schemes of blackmailers. But in running for office and compromising the democratic party and its candidates, Mr. Pelletier is seeking a vindication where none is possible. He has placed the democratic voters who supported him in the primaries in the attitude of opposing the supreme court of Massachusetts. Is not this a piece of rank ingratitude to the democratic party and the voters of Suffolk county?

Unless Mr. Pelletier wants to appear in the light of an ingrate and a weakling, he should withdraw and cease further to embarrass the democratic candidates or to array his supporters as scouting a decision of the supreme court. Mr. Pelletier could never have secured such support under the circumstances if he did not appeal to prejudice, and thus he offers additional reasons why he should not be supported, why he is trafficking upon the honor of those who voted for him.

AVERAGE STATE TAX RATE

The average tax rate among the cities and towns of Massachusetts is $27.11 per thousand. These figures have just been made public by Tax Commissioner Long.

Oxford, the town you read about in the news columns of The Sun the other day, leads with a rate of $44.10. Hopkinton and Gosport are the lowest, with $10 rates. Westchester has a rate of $12 and Manchester $13.50. These are the only other towns lower than $15. The four towns that have rates of $40 or over are Oxford, $42.29, Monson $41, and Paxton $40.60.

The only lesson to be gained from the figures is the plain fact becoming metaphorically an open sore, that the expenditures of the state are increasing to an enormous extent yearly, and a good many of the cities and towns appear to be racing along in the same financial track without any great effort to slow up and readjust their methods of expenditure.

When city and town governments literally "run away" with budgets that are generally overdrawn yearly in many cases, those anxious citizens who are appalled by the expenses threatened next year won't be able to secure any relief, unless the campaign for retrenchment starts now and with some sort of emphasis and real energy that can be relied upon to halt extravagances all along the line.

McMAHON GOING SOUTH

Southern mills profess to see nothing alarming in the upper tier of wages in the mills of the north and the settlement of the various strikes by a restoration of the 20 per cent reduction.

It is reported that Thomas P. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers of America, is to start a campaign of organization among the employees of the southern cotton mills. His success in settling strikes in northern mills will give him increased prestige and influence. His first step will be to formulate demands for a 48-hour week, which would put the southern mills on a level with the northern ones that work at least. What Mr. McMahon can do to bring conditions in the southern mills up to northern standards will help the mills of New England, in the absence of any law requiring uniform hours of labor in these competing mills, an organization that would endeavor to serve the same purpose north and south, might accomplish much good. Mr. McMahon will not start his work in the south until next spring. It is said, although the southern climate is delightfully salubrious in the winter.

NOISE

The quietest place in the world is a laboratory at the University of Utrecht, Netherlands. The walls are insulated so that no sound can get in from the outside.

In this absolutely noiseless room, important experiments are being carried on by scientists studying the effect of noise on the human nerves and brain.

A person, entering this stillness, has a peculiar sensation in the ears, then a feeling of terror. Noise, which is making a nervous wreck of civilized man, has become such a part of us that its total absence strikes fear to the heart. Deaf people are not affected in this way, for the vibrations of sound reach them through their other senses.

The dancing masters are eliminating some of the more barbarous dances so as to make the amusement more civilized.

Today's Word

Today's word is—minatory. It's pronounced—min-a-toe—with accent on the first syllable. It comes from—Latin—"minari," to threaten. It's used like this—"The tone of Russia's demand that Constantinople be turned over to Mustafa Kemal Pasha is distinctly minatory."

The Canny Scot

Two golfing enthusiasts, a Londoner and a Scotsman, were playing a round together. After the first hole the former asked, "How many did you take?" "Eight," said the Scotsman. "I only took seven, so it's my hole," exclaimed the Londoner, triumphantly. After the second hole the Londoner put the same question again, but the Scotsman smiled knowingly. "Na, na," said he. "It's na turn the ask first."

Jonas Was Resourceful

Jonas was rather scared of his wife and knew she didn't approve of his loafing about the house. One day he had a little party on Saturday and came down to the race track, he told his wife he was going fishing. On the way he told the fishmonger to send some fish as an all right. The fishmonger sent half a dozen cods heads. When he got home Jonas said to his wife, "Well, my dear, did you get the fish I caught and sent to you?" She looked at him suspiciously for a moment. "I got a lot of cods' heads," she replied. "Yes, it was a most extraordinary thing," he mused. "How those boys pulled it off. The only way we could get them into the boat at all was by tugging their heads off."

The Cheese Customer

Griggs, the grocer, pulled his apron straight and put on an expansive smile as the woman with the "Yankee" basket stepped from the door of the shop. She wanted some cheese. "Yes, madam," smiled Griggs. "I have some delicious Fall Derby, madam, a quantity of choice Cheddars, and also prime Parmesans." Madam went to take some. If she could, Griggs furnished his grocer wife with cheese and that madam nibbled at it different samples. No; none of them were quite what she wanted. "Of course, madam," said Griggs at length, if you require Stilton— and he handed her a generous helping. Ah! that was the winner. "That will do nicely. Now I'll be getting home. I only want to bait a mouse trap!"

Number Two Whim

All was quiet within the house and the night was far spent. Thus fortune favored the burglar as stealthily he crept into the place and unlocked and deposited them in his bag. But he experienced a horrible cold thrill when an icy hand grasped his wrist. It was not a ghost he saw when he flashed round with his bulging eyes, but a man with a look of sorrow on his face and a look of anger on his forehead. "You mislaid your friend," murmured the intruder sorrowfully. "would you rob me of my valuables? Think, my man, what you are doing. If you have a wife and child what would they do if I sent you to prison? The burglar looked at the stolen goods. "Turn from the door, my brother," cried the intruder. "I am innocent and will forgive. Your secret is safe with me." Then, without a word, our friend made a hasty exit by the window. The kind, loving, charitable old man, having been quietly lifted the burglar's bag on his shoulder, after examining its contents almost in amazement. For he, too, was a burglar.

A Toast

When you have loyally toasted your monarch and drunk to your generous host. And the time draws near for parting; should you seek a final toast, then all your glasses to the him and when the rims have kissed, drain them, my comrades silently to him who has shot and missed. I pledge myself today. Who has cursed or laughed at the wasted shaft. And throw the bow away. Stand, comrades, stand in silence, with glasses raised above.

We are drinking to wasted valor; we are drinking to hopes that are fled; We are drinking to hearts that are empty; we are drinking to shattered love. And, heaven forgive and help them, we are drinking to souls that are dead.

To him that has tried and failed I pledge myself today. Who has conquered sloth and done his work. And seen it thrown away.

Not in contempt or triumph you have left your mark. Some bows are drawn at a venture; some shafts fly home in the dark. Some with an easy target, content with a scolded gain; But now we honor the fearless hearts who have shot at the stars in vain.

To all who have shot and missed I pledge myself today: To the weary life; to the wasted day; To the broken boy; to the empty heart.

To the fires that have died away. —By HUMPHREY STEVENSON.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

One newspaperman of this city claims that another owes him a box of cigars or some such thing as the result of a controversy started over while "knickers." There is quite a history to the white "knickers" and it will be remembered that some time ago the residents of the Highlands were warned through the columns to be on the watch for a pair. As I understand it, at the Lowell Ad club's recent outing one of the advertising solicitors of a newspaper appeared on the scene in white "knickers." He claims he had been coerced to wear them "white knickers" by some of his admirers who lauded his wonderful form and so on. But that is not where the shoe pinches. When his brother newspaperman first appeared in "knickers" it was this advertising man who led the avian chorus in knocking the creation. At the outing this advertising man, known far and wide as a bold Lohario, gave up much of his time to riding a donkey. From all reports the outfit made a great hit.

The farmer of this section has reached that stage in his career where he realizes that selling goods at retail is much more profitable, in two ways than wholesaling his products. Last week I had occasion to take extended auto trips throughout the countryside and one of the things that struck me most forcibly was the number of wayside fruit and vegetable stands. It seems that every farmer now has a retail department of some sort. By selling their produce at the farm for retail prices the farmers gain that additional revenue and are not compelled to bring the stuffs to market, which is also a medium of cutting down expense. The question arises in my mind as to whether it's cheaper to buy from the farmer or to buy in the stores of our city. I don't seem to find much difference. The farmers seem to be charging the retail prices for most of the fruit and vegetables offered. One may say that the commodities are fresh right off the farms, but then again it seems to me that our stores are supplied daily with fresh foods, so that argument does not seem to count. However, that "fresh from the farm" Hugo seems to act as a magnet for some. More power to the farmer; more power to the storekeeper.

That almost-human dirt digger and scoop shovel being operated just around the corner from Merrimack square by the P. Cogger concern, is attracting full houses on the nearby sidewalks and streets from early in the morning until the whole blow. The shovel or scoop works like a charm most of the time, and the operator of the sturdy little upright engine has to have good eyesight and a quick brain. It is no easy job to keep that lever in the right spot and clamp down on it or three more with your right foot when you want to pull up the scoop and shift it to the right so it won't travel too far before the bottom is dropped to let the load of dirt, old boards, tar paper and other articles of refuse and junk fall into the waiting auto trucks to be carted away to the dumps. For excavating where the "going" is too rocky, these huge dirt shovels and scoops are the real thing. The Cogger boys run in a ledge and a lot of hefty rocks, but the only thing the shovel refused to budge was the ledge.

The new "Great White Way" boulevard street lights—21 in all—installed last week along the new street from Canal to High street, were "turned on" for the first time, yesterday. Arrangements were completed late Monday night for the circulating of this light. It may not be generally known that the new light system is operated upon two separate circuits—one circuit for the service ending on or about midnight—the second for lights that will burn all night, or as long as desired. It will be easy at any time to maintain the lights on for four, five, six, or seven hours, or as long as desired, and all emergencies will be taken care of in this way if the city streets have any lighting service at all. The Sun was not shining when the new lights were tested yesterday afternoon; but the city was lit up with all of Lowell, and when the circuits were thrown open, lighting the new "White Way," they were instantly admired by pedestrians and vehicle drivers alike.

Ever written a letter, mailed it in a corner box or in your local postoffice, and then changed your mind? You probably have been "through the mill" like all the rest of us—mailed an important letter, forgot to say what you had to say, and then rushed back to get that letter back. You recollect that in the old days, you sometimes went to the P. O. and asked the man at the window if he wouldn't please get it for you. You usually got the letter back for your trouble. "Why, man alive, if I did that for everybody!" etc., etc. And so it went. Today, things are different over our postoffice and at all the P. O.'s in the land. Samuel S. Starnes, chief clerk, wants to help everybody more and more as the shining days go by. He is beginning to almost patronize the "deer people" as it were, in looking about for new ways to make good. Uncle Sam's auditors remember the trouble he used to cause folks who couldn't get their mail back again when they had overlooked postage or enclosures, or sometimes the letters themselves, for more than one man and woman has very carefully sealed up an empty envelope and mailed it, only to find now that if you have had such an experience as that, don't let it worry you from now on. Under the latest postal regulations, it is dead easy to get back that letter you mailed by mistake, notwithstanding it has been run through the cancellation machine and sent upon its way. All you have to do is to go to your postmaster and explain everything. The postmaster must comply with your request for withdrawal, providing you can furnish proof that you are the sender of the missive desired. You have to give good proofs, of course, together with samples of your handwriting, and must write the address identically the same as it was written on the letter you desire to look at once more.

I am informed that the new rules of the postoffice department also permit postmasters to telegraph the railway mail clerk and ask him to take a recalled letter out of the mail pouch after it has left for its destination. The latter measure isn't taken very often, however.

FEAR FOR AMERICAN COLLEGE AT CONSTANTINOPLE

Grave fear is felt by Americans who have contributed thousands to the support of the American college at Constantinople for the safety of the college and its staff and students. The American college at Smyrna was burned. If the Turks seize Constantinople, the same fate may befall the college there. Below, the college; above a group of girl students, who may be seized for Turkish harems.

SEC. DAVIS FLAYS FLAPPER

Flighty Foibles and Flippancy

of Flapper Disturbing Evils

of Society

Reasons Which Prompted

Him to Consecrate Life to

Services of Childhood

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 20.—Flighty foibles and the flippancy of the "flapper," Secretary of Labor Davis declared today in addressing the American Insurance union, are disturbing evils in the social fabric of the nation which must be overcome. "The 'iniquities of our younger set, the flippancy of the flapper, the cocky, cocktail-drinking flapper is all about us," he added, explaining, however, that he had "supreme faith in the youth of the land and in the 'mothers of America.'"

"We hear," Mr. Davis said, "much of evil tendencies among our girls and boys, of excessive coquetry and flirtation in our schools and homes, of the exuberance of youth turned out to be of sophisticated sentimentality. Such conditions, he added, were disturbing. The things, however, that stirred 'every latent fear' in his 'heart' were the 'flappers' who had vowed to consecrate his life and work to the services of childhood, he declared, were these:

"Two hundred and fifty thousand American babies snatched by death from their mothers' breasts every year because they have had time so-called to open their unseeing eyes upon the world about them."

"Half a million children, so-called defectives and delinquents, growing up almost totally neglected."

"A million and a half American boys and girls bent beneath the burden of premature work in mine and mill and factory before they have sensed the duties and privileges of humanity."

"Thirty million American children of school age who even if they can win to the opportunity for education, face in our schools a false learning, an education that will not fit more than one in ten of them for the places they must occupy in life."

"But more portentous yet," continued Secretary Davis, "looms the problem of the child in industry. Approximately a million and a half American boys and girls of school age are thrown beneath the wheels of the juggernaut of industry, pressed to labor before their time, doomed to the dreary drudgery of mine and mill and factory by economic necessity. They face hopeless future. Before them stretches the treadmill of unremunerative labor with its years of heart-breaking, soul-souring toil, and at the end—a grave."

"Here if anywhere, we face a real danger to the republic. Here is a menace greater than any that lies in the blatant mouthings of doctrines and the 'unfulfillable demands' of her late enemies, was drawn by Dr. Karl Wirth, German chancellor, in an interview with the Berlin correspondent of the Westminster Gazette. ## ALARMING PICTURE OF GERMAN SITUATION

LONDON, Sept. 20.—An alarming picture of internal conditions in Germany in consequence of the poor harvest and the "unfulfillable demands" of her late enemies, was drawn by Dr. Karl Wirth, German chancellor, in an interview with the Berlin correspondent of the Westminster Gazette. Germany's only hope, he intimated, lay in America.

GIVEN NINE YEARS

FOR AUTO THEFT

BARTLEBORO, Vt., Sept. 20.—A sentence of not less than nine years nor more than 10 years at hard labor in the state prison was imposed by Judge Harry B. Chase in Windham county court yesterday afternoon upon John Graham, of Providence, R. I., after he had pleaded guilty to the charge of stealing Maj. Lion D. Taylor's automobile last week.

Frank H. Stearns of Johnson, Vt., who was with Graham, was given a suspended sentence of not less than three years nor more than five years and placed on probation. He was ordered to reimburse Maj. Taylor for the expense of recovering the car.

The machine and the two men were captured in Boston, Mass.

It was stated to the court by State's Attorney Harold E. Whitney yesterday that the two respondents met in Burlington Sept. 4 and that Graham stole a machine and went with Stearns to Springfield, Mass., where they sold it for $40. Shortly afterwards, at Riverside park, Springfield, Graham stole another car. It was claimed, and abandoned it in Chicago, when it ran out of gasoline.

Then they came to Bartleboro.

COLLINS "SIZES UP" GIANTS

Star Second Baseman Writes Series of World Series Articles For The Sun

Calls Present Giant Infield One of Greatest in History of Game

This is the first of seven articles written for The Sun by Eddie Collins of the Chicago White Sox. Collins has played in more World Series games than any other major league player.

BY EDDIE COLLINS, World's Greatest Second Baseman. Following a series of 11 games this past spring between the Giants and White Sox which was bitterly fought and closely contested, I remarked to McGraw, "You've got the best National League team I ever saw."

With the possible exception of one position, center field, which I hear Cunningham and the veteran Steghe have filled most acceptably, I did not see how a single man could have been replaced with any advantage gained by the Giants.

Any pitching at all it looked a cinch for them to walk home, and apparently with very little good twirling they have simply slugged their way to another pennant.

As this story is being written it looks as though the Pirates at present were playing the best ball of any National League team, but I am of the opinion their rush is too late, and for this reason I will confine my discussion to the Giants alone as the most probable National League World Series contestant.

The infield of the old Chicago clubs and the Athletics of former days is added were pretty good, but if either of those two had anything on the present Giant inner circle, I think alone will tell. It's a cinch none could have begun better.

Ideal First Baseman
Taken individually, Kelly is an ideal first baseman, possessed with the best arm I've seen in baseball. A sure fielder, he is as consistent a performer as a manager could desire. Over a 300 hits, a slugging distinctly, not fast, but he is dangerous at all times.

At second base, I think I can think of no one better than the best ball player in the National League. As I make this statement I can hear the name of Horsey mentioned. In justice to the latter, let me say it's never been my pleasure to see him perform in a league game, but if he can better the work of any other player in front of me in all departments of play, he's got to go home.

As a fielder, base runner, hitter (either right or left handed), slugger or bunter, the best compliment I can think of to pay Frankie is, he is the star of the National League.

In the outfield, I think you see a typical McGraw man—at his best when the going is the toughest. Not as consistent or steady as some shortstop, but one who can rise to dizzy heights and save many a ball game. There may have been better National League shortstops, but never on a Giant team.

Groh rounds out the infield at third to perfection. Handicapped this year by injury, but when a wonderful fielder, especially of hard-hit balls. Groh is a most dangerous man at bat and best hit-and-run man on the club.

Best Utility Man
In Johnny Hawlings, McGraw has undoubtedly the best utility man in baseball. With Young, next to Frisch, the best ball player on the club, Irish

SISLER

KELLY

BY BILLY EVANS
George Sisler, St. Louis Browns—Sisler is generally rated as the greatest first baseman in the major leagues. He shines in every department of play, has a single weakness.

POP BOTTLE THREATENED WITH EXPULSION

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—The pop bottle, as much a part of a ball game as hot dogs and peanuts, is threatened with expulsion from big league society. Dan Johnson, president of the American League, asserted today in announcing that he expected to bring the matter up for discussion during the winter meetings. Johnson attempted a similar move years ago but was overruled.

The revival of the bottle crusade is the result of the happening in the New York-St. Louis game last Saturday when Wilky Witt of the Yanks was knocked unconscious by a pop bottle, thrown by a fan.

Meusel and either Cunningham or Stengel to take care of the outfield, and either Smith or Snyder behind the bat. McGraw can put a team on the field that looks hard to beat.

However, no one apparent weakness in the Giant's style of play is its lack of versatility. There is too much sameness about every game with the Giants.

Rarely is the "unexpected" pulled by any of its members. I am told McGraw does not encourage initiative on the part of any of even his more experienced men.

From my observation I have always found McGraw's teams playing almost like a machine, rarely resorting to the sacrificial game, unless in the very late stages and the score tied.

On the contrary, if only one behind, it appears as though he says to his men "win or lose" it is this inning; don't play to live.

With a pitching staff, or even two men—all that are really needed in a World Series—that measured any way close to the caliber of the rest of the team, McGraw's opponent would be the one who would have to do all the worrying.

Nehf I admired, and liked his work and action immensely. He reminded me greatly of Eddie Plank. Why he hasn't done better this year, I can't imagine.

Scott I've never seen work, but he must not look formidable enough to me to stop the American League on-try.

In the two major leagues. His fielding is on a par with his batting. Sisler is the logical successor to Ty Cobb as the game's greatest all-around player.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

If Newport Johnny Brown wins over Freddie Williams here tomorrow night his manager, Chick Hayen, will open up a campaign to force Chick Suggs into match for the New England featherweight title.

Suggs has held the featherweight championship for some time, but Hayen and many other managers aver the reason Suggs has retained the title is that he refuses to meet legitimate contenders. He that as it may, the energetic Hayen prepares to appeal to the boxing commission for action if his sensational featherweight is further ignored.

But to be in a position to demand consideration from Suggs, Brown must first defeat Williams and this task, according to Billy Henderson, manager of the Dorchester boxer, is far from an easy one. Henderson declares Williams' success against Willie Carbert and Bert Jones in the east and his decision over Danny Edwards in his last fight before he will graduate into the main bout class. That's his ambition and hence he is in perfect condition for his coming bout.

Jimmy Donnan will enter the ring against Johnny Sunday tomorrow night, determined to make it three victories in a row. In winning over Benny Nelson and then Ray Young, Ketchell, the Lowell boy gave his stock a great boost, and if he can come through tomorrow night it will not be long before he will graduate into the main bout class. That's his ambition and hence he is in perfect condition for his coming bout.

Young Martin Flaherty is also out to add another scalp to his belt. He is in fine trim for his eight-round set-to with Billy Brewer of Lynn. In the other eight Lefty Williams, a very satisfactory performer a year ago, will make his debut this season against Danny Murphy of Lawrence.

Another record crowd is expected to turn out soon to see lightweight champion Leonard Leonard. The lightweight king has been matched to box Charley White at Boyle's this afternoon on the night of Oct. 2. This will be the night before the opening of the world's series in New York, and many out of town persons will be in and around the city. Consequently a good many are expected to take a run over to see the bout.

George Kelly, New York Giants—Kelly is the style first sacker that makes a hit with the rest of the infield. Standing well over six feet, he is a great target for the other players on a hurried throw. He bats and throws right-handed. He takes all free swingers he has a tendency to strike out often, but is a dangerous hitter. The honors at first base go to Sisler.

STANDINGS

The New York Giants won the 1922 series because McGraw's team got the pitching plus the breaks.

The New York Yankees were able to force the series to eight games largely through good pitching.

The break really decided the issue. In two of the games an infield error on an easy chance spelled victory for the Giants and defeat for the Yankees.

It is only natural to assume that pitching will play its usual prominent part in the coming series.

In the World Series of 1921 the Giants showed three sterling pitchers in Douglas, Nehf and Barnes. Big Toney failed.

Hayt and Mays
The Yankees presented two pitching demons in White Hoyt and Carl Mays. Hoyt, who was used as a reliever, was unable to come through.

Last year's battle was between three great pitchers and two crack performers. The margin of victory went to the Giants, who had three star twirlers working in good style.

At which leads me up to the opinion that a nine-game series calls for a better pitched pitching staff than a seven-game affair.

Of pitchers, that is, a pitcher who stands out has a much better chance of coping a seven-game series through the work of that individual than it has of winning a nine-game clinch.

Shocker a Wonder
That is much the position the St. Louis Browns would face if representing the American league in the annual classic.

In Urban Shocker, the St. Louis Browns have one of the greatest pitchers in the history of the game. Shocker is a spitball pitcher, but he has everything else in his repertoire.

In addition, he knows how to pitch. Much thought is back of every ball that Shocker delivers. He is at his best in a pinch and seems to work better success against the truly great hitters than the ordinary ones.

Shocker is a glutton for work. No task is too great. If the St. Louis team is to win the big series it is a cinch that Shocker will start at least three games. Incidentally, it wouldn't be surprising to see him used as a reliever in case any other twirler falters.

Mikes Them Up
Although a spitball pitcher, and the possessor of a splitter that has almost deceived him, Shocker mixes them up in great fashion. He has a free natural delivery that places little or no strain on the arm. Shocker wastes no energy. He hears down only what necessary. He is much harder to hit when there are runners on than when the bases are empty.

Shocker is a past master in the art of pitching. That is why used as a reliever, he has a great chance to beat any club three times in a short series. Unquestionably the chances are that the Browns would, to a great extent, depend on the success of Shocker if they get in the series.

And don't forget, Shocker is at his best in the pinch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The New York Yankees were a notch nearer their second consecutive American League championship today as a result of defeating Ty Cobb's battling Tigers, 4 to 3, in the first game of the series, while the St. Louis Browns, again without the services of George Sisler and showing a reaction from the effects of their losing struggle with the Browns, succumbed to Washington by the same score.

The Yankees increased their lead in the race to two and a half games. They can clinch the pennant by taking seven of their remaining nine games, even St. Louis wins all eight of its contests.

Sam Jones of the Yankees and Herman Pilleto, Cobb's twirling ace, both got off to wobbly starts but Jones was upright after the second inning, while his rival weakened in the seventh and eighth when New York pushed over the tying and winning runs. Babe Ruth's 34th homer, a double steal by Schang and Jones and extra base walks by Pipp and Meusel were scoring factors for the Yankees.

Ken Williams of the Browns matched Ed Ruth's circuit clout with his 39th, putting him two ahead of Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals and increasing the probability that he will displace the Babe as this year's home run champion.

The New York Giants, holding the seemingly impregnable lead of five and one-half games, were ready to battle the second place Pittsburgh outfit in the first of a three-game series today. The Pirates gained a half game in the race by trouncing Philadelphia 6 to 1, while the champions were idle. The Giants, to clinch their eighth National League title since 1900, need win but seven of their 13 games even if the Pirates capture all 10 contests.

Two circuit twirlers, Motever and Winn, pitched Cleveland to a double victory over the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 4 and 3 to 2. Neither issued a base on a hit.

Hornsby hit safely in his 33rd consecutive game while St. Louis downed the Boston Braves, 5 to 4, in the only other game played in either major league.

Pennant Chances Dimmed
ST. LOUIS, Sept. 20.—Visions of the first baseball pennant for St. Louis in 22 years were dimmed, if not hopelessly lost, today as a result of the St. Louis Americans' defeat at the hands of the New York Yankees yesterday. The Yankees' victory yesterday, while the New York Yankees were whipping the Detroit Tigers, thus increasing the margin between the two teams to 2 1/2 games.

However, with championship visions sent a-glimmering, applications for reservations for the world's championship series were being sent in by thousands to the St. Louis Americans' headquarters. Robert Quinn, business manager of the club, announced that the St. Louis Browns would, to a great extent, depend on the success of Shocker if they get in the series.

And don't forget, Shocker is at his best in the pinch.

FISH AND GAME CLUB OUTING TOMORROW
The stage is set for the monster outing of the Lowell Fish and Game association at Willow Dale park tomorrow. Tickets have been purchased freely and with good reason. Other promoters of the outing, the members of the association are likely to have entertainment facilities for the outing. The ticket sale ended yesterday, nearly every pastebored being disposed of. More than 500 members and guests will attend the outing, participating in the sports programs, partake of the hot roast lamb dinner and ram around the park renewing old acquaintances.

Numerous sportsmen from far cities and towns are on their way, and it is expected to have every county town represented as was the case last year. It is planned to have about 125 automobiles lined up at the Hood building to transport members and guests to the park, leaving at 10:15.

There will be the usual street parade. Edward Rowe is to be trumpeter. Arnold A. Byam is in charge of all transportation matters, and each auto will carry a number of flags.

The sports program follows the offerings of previous years, with the exception of a ball-throwing contest and a target shooting. The target shooting will be a feature, too. Three surprises are scheduled for the big park outing. The first is the Hoboken Tennis tournament, and the second is the shooting contest. The third is the trap-shooting contest. The trap-shooting contest is also for best score.

A good many locals plan to attend the Nashua celebration in the evening. Free parking space will be arranged by the mayor of Nashua and the chief of police, and there will be no parking charges. Twelve hundred spectators are likely to attend the "cup river" round-up.

A buffet lunch will be served at Willow Dale before the Nashua start.

SPANISH DAVIS CUP STAR PLAYS
HOBOKEN, N. J., Sept. 20.—Manuel Alonso Spanish Davis cup star, will play in the semi-finals of the Cnetle. Point cup tournament today on the courts of the Hoboken Tennis club against Jerome Lang youthful Columbia university racket expert.

Percy L. Kynaston of Rockville Centre, N. Y., will meet the other semi-final winner of the fourth round match between Howard Kinsey of San Francisco and Dr. William Rosenbaum of New York.

GRAND CIRCUIT RACES
COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 20.—Light delis will compete in the four races on today's Grand Circuit card here this afternoon. Tommy Murphy, who has not won a heat in the two days' racing, is expected to break into the win column this afternoon as he has started in three of the four events. In the Horse Review feature for three-year-old pacers, which carries a purse of $6000, there are only three starters, while the Southern Hotel stakes for 2 1/1 pacers has only five. Two class events, the 2:15 trot and the 2:14 pace, complete the day's card.

MICKEY TRAVERS WINS

Gets Decision Over Cooney—Benny Leonard in Brother's Corner

HOLYOKE, Sept. 20.—Mickey Travers of New Haven won the judges' decision over Jimmy Cooney of New York in the main go of the Valley Athletic club held in the City hall auditorium here last night.

Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, acted as second to his brother, Joy, who secured a technical knockout over Joe Moran of Albany in the third round of a six-round go. Referee George Freeman stopped the bout as Moran was getting up from the carpet for the third time in that round.

Freeman also stopped the 6-round battle between Homer Roche of Holyoke and Joe Villa of Brooklyn. Roche was handling Villa terrific beating.

Mickey Blaud was stopped in the second round by Blackie LaBelle in the four-round preliminary.

Italian Joe Grims won the judges' verdict over Nate Hegal, New England welterweight, in New York bout last night.

BIG CROWD WILL HEAR GALLI-CURCI SING

The audience which will hear Galli-Curci sing at the Memorial Auditorium on Friday evening, October 6, promises to be a record breaking one for this part of New England. As printed from the seating plans of the architects there were 3,686 tickets to sell and at this date every indication points to a sell-out.

The management of the concert is very much pleased with the interest shown in the advance sale of tickets through the mail. In over twenty concerts given in four different cities in the past three years the best advance mail order sale was for Geraldine Farrar in Lawrence last November. On that occasion a mail order sale of two weeks preceded the public sale. The total of mail orders was $1,100 and the remaining $23,000 worth of tickets were sold in a day and a half when the box office opened.

The plan for the Galli-Curci concert calls for a mail order sale of two weeks and a public sale of two weeks. The first week of mail orders closed Saturday night and showed receipts of $124,050, or nearly $150 more than the previous best record made in three weeks instead of one. Since last Friday the daily receipts for tickets have been more than $300 a day and increasing each day.

The Rogers Hall school, which does not open until September 23 or five days after the public sale, has purchased a ticket for every girl who will enroll. A single day's mail from Lawrence brought nearly $125 from that city. Orders have been received from Nashua, Haverhill and Andover, where ## the concert has been advertised. Beginning today the concert drive will be pushed in Melrose, Malden, Wakefield, Reading, Woburn and Winchester. The most distant order to date has come from Portsmouth, N. H.

An unusual feature of the sale has been the number of people who have left cash at Galli-Curci's to pay for tickets when they go on sale Saturday morning. In no case have these people been given tickets for the rule about the public sale opening Saturday morning is being rigidly adhered to. The only tickets going out in the meantime are to those people who bought through the mail. Friday last Mr. Hiser and his assistants took in exactly $222 cash from people who were content to leave their money at the store to pay for tickets as soon as they are released for public sale.

The magnificent response to the enterprise which brought a Galli-Curci engagement to Lowell has pleased the manager of it immensely. Not only have many individuals but nearly every club and organization that is keen to promote any thing good for the city have offered Mr. Donovan their support in making the concert and "Galli-Curci Day" a red letter one.

REGISTRATION AT GIRLS' CITY CLUB

Advance registration for vocational classes will be taken Thursday evening, Sept. 21, at 7.30 at the Girls' City Club. Classes in the following subjects will be held Monday and Thursday nights, beginning the first week in October—dressmaking, for beginners and advanced pupils, millinery, home hygiene and care of the sick, and embroidery. Winter gowns will be made, and the latest fall hats will be fashioned. Fancy work of various kinds will be taught in the embroidery class and Christmas gifts will be made. The ## home nursing course is the standardized and Red Cross Nursing course of fifteen lessons, for which a certificate is given upon the satisfactory completion of the lessons.

Registration day for other classes will be announced later, but anyone desiring one of the following classes may leave her name at the club office. Lamp-shade making under Mrs. G. E. Caisse, Thursday evenings, beginning October 19. A Banjo-Mandolin club for club instruction, under the direction of Mr. Hovey will be formed in October. A class in Interior Home Decoration for Monday evenings is being arranged. This class will be given under the State University Extension department.

Classes in any subject for which there is a sufficient demand are formed at any time.

BREAKDOWN DELAYS CAR SERVICE

Service on the street railway was suspended for fifteen minutes yesterday afternoon beginning about 4.45 when the auxiliary generator at the power house on Middlesex street broke down.

The first sign of trouble occurred at 5.30 o'clock yesterday morning at the power house when the big 2600 h. p. generator burned a bearing. From then on during the day power was furnished by the auxiliary 2000 h. p. generator. This turbine did good service all day till about 4.45 when it was necessary for the workmen to shut off the power so that they might make a few minor repairs. The shutdown lasted 15 minutes and during that time service was held up on all the lines in the city. Two generator breakdowns in one day is a very unusual occurrence.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS HOLD AUTUMN PARTY

A large crowd attended the autumn party, conducted last night in Association hall, under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus. General dancing was enjoyed from 8 until 12 with Miner-Doyle's orchestra furnishing the music. Those in charge were as follows:

General manager, John F. Hart; assistant general manager, Roger Lang; floor director, J. Eugene Mullin; assistant floor directors, George O'Malley and Arthur O'Neill; treasurer, Thomas J. Fitzgerald; aids, John J. O'Keefe, J. Henry King and Timothy Finnegan.

A new use for Lux

Brings longed-for relief from the three-times-a-day reddening of the hands

INTO the dish pan three times every day—washing with harsh soap—naturally your hands redden and grow coarse.

Don't let them show tell-tale traces of dishwashing.

Wash your dishes with Lux. It gets the china sparklingly clean and it preserves the softness, the delicate texture of your skin.

Women themselves discovered this use for Lux. Women who for years had been getting such satisfaction from Lux for silks and woolsens tried it for washing dishes.

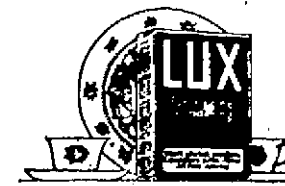

Thousands of letters have come in to us saying that Lux suds leave your china beautifully clean and at no cost to your hands, and asking us why we never mentioned it.

Lux contains no free alkali or any other harmful ingredient. It is as easy on your hands as a fine toilet soap.

Start using Lux today for washing dishes. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

MILL WORKERS ARE DRAGGED FROM CAR

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 19.—Boarding a trolley car which had been separated by a freight train from an armed convoy of troopers following in an automobile, seven men dragged two loyal mill workers from the car this morning at Westcott, and severely beat them. Two of the alleged assailants were later arrested. George Rogers and George E. Brown, the two men dragged from the car, were both cut on their heads.

A few moments later, 20 women armed with stones, attempted to hit an equal number of mill workers from crossing the cement bridge at Natick. One of the women was arrested after the group had been dispersed by troops on guard in that district.

SAYS PLEAS OF 100,000 IGNORED

U. S. Ship Captain Said to Have Left Smyrna Without Cargo at Outbreak of Fire

Refused to Embark Refugees Who Lined Water's Edge Begging to Be Saved

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The Near East relief received a cable today from Constantinople from H. C. Jaquith of Darien, Conn., its managing director for Anatolia, reporting that the captain of the shipping board vessel Hog Island left Smyrna for Alexandria, without cargo at the outbreak of the fire, refusing to heed the entreaties of Americans to embark 100,000 refugees who lined the water's edge for two miles begging to be saved.

The destroyer Lieutenant, according to the message, has arrived at Constantinople with 500 American orphans from Smyrna. About 6000 Christians out of 100,000 already have been evacuated. The steamship Winona has arrived at Piraeus with many employees of American institutions and with girl orphans from the Smyrna orphanage formerly operated by the Near East relief.

The message said that all the American women in Smyrna had been removed. Another report said that 20,000 refugees had been removed, 25,000 were still on the quays and 55,000 were unaccounted for.

During the six days following the Turkish occupation the cable declared, thousands of Greek and Armenian men marched through the streets to kill. Large groups were seen marching to the interior probably for deportation. The total dead is estimated at about 50,000.

American relief workers are trying to feed the refugees and to get permission to use European shipping and American destroyers to transport them to Saloniki and Kavai. A cable dated four days says there are 75,000 refugees in Rodosto, in Thrace, being aided by American relief workers. Supplies of flour, rice, cheese and milk which were to have been used for orphans in Constantinople, are being rushed to Smyrna.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The American Smelting and Refining Co. today advanced the price of lead from 6.00 to 8.10 cents per pound.

PERSONALITIES

have always exercised a large influence over the financial markets. This is often manifested not only in the fluctuations of individual issues but, in at least the minor movements of the general list.

If a big man dies, or if it becomes known that he will go to Europe, there is frequently an immediate reflection in quotations; and someone has said, "If you would know markets, know the men who make them."

The outstanding feature of our weekly market review is that it is now in a series of intimate, human interest articles on sketching the careers of such men as James H. Keene, Jay Gould and others of heavy caliber in stock market battling. A study of these articles may be as profitable as any "news" in attempting to analyze the underlying reasons for market happenings.—Although Lowell's Financial Weekly, in which "STOCK MARKET PERSONALITIES" is appearing, also contains a broad selection of the latest, more significant "NEWS" on active issues.

An excellent market letter with an unusually attractive feature. Copies on request.

B. & M. CARSHOP STRIKE

Early Settlement of Strike
Looked for by the Federated Crafts

It plans of the executive board of the Federated Crafts of the Boston & Maine carshops in Billerica are carried out, it is expected that the carshop strike, which has been in effect for several weeks, will soon be a thing of the past. The committee is now endeavoring to have a conference with officials of the road and it is felt that if both bodies can be brought together the difficulties will be ironed out and the men will return to work.

This was one of the announcements of the members of the crafts, which was held in the Colonial theatre, Middlesex street, by Edward McMillan of the Blacksmiths' union, who is also a member of the executive board of the Federated Crafts. Mr. McMillan outlined the work of the delegates at the conference and in the course of his remarks he informed his listeners that the so-called Willard-Warfield and Jewell plan for the strike settlement had been accepted by 107 railroads. This plan consists mainly of all men returning to work to their former positions which they held June 30 at the present rate of pay, with the exception of those who have been found guilty of acts of violence. These men will be dropped from the payroll of the companies. If the officials see fit, Mr. McMillan stated that the Boston & Maine was one of the roads that refused to adopt the plan, but he further stated that negotiations were now being made for a conference between members of the executive board and President Eustis, Vice President and General Manager Pollock and Superintendent Wiggin of the motor power department, and he said he expected the conference would be productive of good results. The other speaker at last evening's meeting was Fred Nolan of New York, international vice president of the blacksmiths' union.

Walter H. Chandler, chairman of the local federation, who for the past week has been scouring the state in an endeavor to raise funds for the strikers, stated this morning that today and tomorrow his time will be taken up in this city. He will parade the principal streets of Lowell with his company, while some of his companions will pass the hat around. On Friday the committee will go to Lawrence and Saturday will be spent in Salem. Tomorrow evening a dance will be held in Associate hall for the benefit of the strikers.

SALARIES INCREASED

The members of the clerical force employed in the city auditor's department were pleasantly surprised when notifications went around today that all had received increases in pay. Chief Clerk James T. Dwyer received a raise of $300 a year, Miss Eleanor M. Churchill a like amount, and Miss Edith C. Donohue $200 a year. In making the recommendations for the salary increases, Auditor Daniel E. Martin stated that it was only a step to bring the scale in his office up to that of other offices. He made the recommendations and they were approved by the mayor. Mr. Dwyer will now receive $2100 a year, Miss Churchill, $1700 and Miss Donohue, $1350.

14 Killed and 17 Injured in Train Wreck

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Fourteen persons were killed and 17 injured in the wreck yesterday of a north bound passenger train at Empalme Gonzalez, it was announced by the National Railways executive offices. The wreck was caused by a washout. Other bodies may be discovered when the debris is cleared, the bulletin says. Henry B. Burton of Atlixco, state of Puebla, and J. D. Lestey, of an unnamed Texas city, only American victims, are said to have been seriously injured.

Bodies of 13 Suicides Found

NIKKO, Japan, Aug. 31.—(Mail)—(By the Associated Press)—The bodies of 13 suicides were found in the basin of the Kegan waterfalls in Nikko last week. Policemen and private detectives keep watch on the platform near the foot whence the waterfall drops to a deep ravine, but in spite of this guard the beautiful Kegan claims a large number of victims every year.

LOWELL DISTRICT COURT

Men Engage in Fierce and Bloody Struggle Over Widow—Other Cases

Bonds of $1000 were set by Judge Enright in district court this morning for the appearance of Dolphis Briere in court for trial on Sept. 23 for assault and battery on Charles Mazzullo on the evening of Aug. 3. As a result of this attack Mazzullo has lost his left eye and had eight stitches taken in his face.

According to the police, the trouble occurred because of the jealousy of Briere who thought Mazzullo was becoming too strongly entrenched in the affections of a mutual friend, a widow. Both men had been calling on this woman for some time and were good friends up to the time of the assault. On the night in question the police say that Mazzullo went to the woman's house, where he was followed by Briere.

A discussion arose between the two men as they were standing in the darkened hallway and the police say that Briere struck Mazzullo. There was quite a battle and in the melee the latter had his face ripped open and lost his left eye. He does not know what Briere hit him with and Briere says that he only used his fists.

Mazzullo was taken to the Corporation hospital, where he was given preliminary treatment and eight stitches taken in the wound. He was then sent to the City and County Infirmary in Boston, where he was treated for the loss of his eye.

The affair was not reported to the police till a week ago when Mazzullo appeared at the police station and told his story to the superintendent. He assigned Inspector John F. Walsh to the case and he picked up Briere on the street the next night. At the station, when questioned, the police say that Briere told the same story as the complainant about the affair but said he used no weapon other than his fist.

Direct Sentence For Non-Support

A direct sentence of four months in the house of correction was handed to Alfred Beland when he was found guilty by the court on the charge of non-support of his wife and daughter. The court pronounced yesterday to take drastic measures in these cases and kept his word today. According to the story told by the man's wife, Beland works occasionally but the wife never receives a cent of money as he spends it all for liquor. She told the court that she had not received a penny from her husband for the last four weeks and owes to large rent and grocery bill now because of this man's self-indulgence and selfishness.

FIRE ALARMS

There were two alarms late yesterday afternoon for automobile fires. The first was from box 53 at 5:22 o'clock for a slight blaze in McLaughlin's laundry truck in Perry street and the other was from box 319 at 5:52 o'clock for a slight fire in an automobile owned by J. LeBlanc at 652 Middlesex at.

STREET RAILWAY MEN LOCAL TEXTILE STRIKE INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENT BOARD CASES

BACK ON THE JOB

Most of the laborers of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., who struck for more pay last Monday, returned to their work this morning after being granted an increase of five cents an hour. Those who did not report for work this morning were paid off this afternoon at the office of the company and their places will be filled by others.

The men were receiving 35 cents an hour and they asked an increase of 16 cents an hour. Upon the refusal of the company to grant their demand they stopped work. Yesterday a committee of the strikers conferred with Manager Lees and last evening, Mr. Lees announced that the best the company could do was to grant an increase of five cents an hour. Mr. Lees stated today that all but about 20 of the men accepted the increase and reported for work this morning. The others he said, are through with the company and their places will be filled.

FUNERALS

MACKIE—The funeral of Henry W. Mackie took place from the funeral home, 235 Westford street, yesterday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. Percy E. OPEN AUDITORIUM FOR PUBLIC INSPECTION

According to Mayor George H. Brown the Memorial Auditorium will be thrown open to the public for inspection on Friday and Saturday. The mayor said this morning that he had ordered the new building to be opened to the public on Friday evening, while on Saturday the building will be open most of the day.

It is also possible that music will be provided on one of the days at least, although the mayor said today he was not sure of this would be done. It has been suggested that an orchestra be provided on Friday afternoon and evening and that the public be allowed to dance free of charge.

SOUSA GUEST OF LOWELL ROTARY CLUB

John Philip Sousa, bandmaster and composer, whose famous and popular organization gave two excellent concerts in Lowell yesterday, was a dinner guest of the Lowell Rotary clubmen yesterday noon. Mr. Sousa received a warm reception, shook hands with everybody present and gave the Rotarians one of the most delightful talks that they have listened to for some time. The bandmaster was in rare form, as usual, bubbling over with jokes, neat puns and many descriptions of world sights and topics.

The Rotarians made the visitor an honorary member of the club before his departure. He expressed sincere pleasure at being able to come to Lowell at this time. He was introduced by Blake Irvine.

Mr. Sousa stated that he intended to give a $500 address for a 50-cent luncheon, but the Rotarians told him to go right ahead. He promptly offered for their approval stories of travels in European lands, always with humorous touches that kept the Rotarians smiling and chuckling. Mr. Sousa, the bandmaster, too, "America" being the last number of the program arranged in honor of the musician—Rotarian.

RUTH WILL VISIT LOWELL

Brilliant Yankee Outfielder to Be Guest of Local Xavierian Brothers in October

When Christopher Columbus discovered America, the then known world was won to marvel; when Man-of-War established unprecedented turf records, trackmen gasped, but when Babe Ruth, the bustling, bumbling of baseball, was found, the night of the hall has a seating capacity of more than 1800 and at each concert it was necessary to place more than 100 chairs on either end of the large stage.

Accompanying artists were Miss Marjorie Moody, soprano, and Miss Caroline Thomas, violinist. The program followed last evening was typically Sousa. It brought in many of his best known marches and encore selections, which, by the way, were freely given and it seemed that the audience enjoyed "El Capitán," "Bullets and Bayonets," "U. S. Field Artillery," and "Stars and Stripes Forever" fully as much as the more diversified program numbers.

After so many years of training under the critical baton of Commander Sousa it is to be expected that the band instantly will comply with his every nod, but although this is accepted as a matter of fact, one cannot fail to be impressed at the manner in which the 65 musicians solidify their tones and perform in concert to the expressive twirl of his baton. It is the last word in unified action, of course, secured now by the director with a minimum of effort on his part.

After colorful overture, "The Red Sarafan," Mr. John Dolan again showed his beautiful control and skill as a cornetist in a solo number, "Carnival Polka." He easily met the demand made upon the instrument and played the selection with grace and beauty.

Sousa never has failed to embody his own impressions of the beautiful and unusual things of the world in many of his compositions and so it was not surprising that he should have included "The Gaiety Hostess," "The Camp Fire Girls" and "The Loyal Plumper," the last named being strictly 1922 music.

Miss Moody sang beautifully the "An Echo Last" from La Traviata, and for an encore gave Sousa's "The American Girl." Miss Moody will be remembered as an accompanying artist on the band's last visit to the city two years ago.

In "A Bouquet of Beloved Inspiration" the composer-director has embodied themes that he believes are universally admired by music lovers including the beautiful lit of Mendelssohn's Spring Song and the majestic William Tell overture.

"The Gallant Seventh" is one of the director's most recent march tunes and was played with inimitable spirit. The band was taxed considerably in its closing selection, a transcription of the cowboy breakdown, "Turkey in the Straw."

Miss Thomas, violinist, played three times and was instantly appreciated by her audience. She showed both skill and temperament in marked degree and her playing was enhanced by Miss Bambrick's harp accompaniment.

In the afternoon the program was of an educational nature throughout for the benefit of many school pupils who attended. The quality of the musical instruments was brought out in various ways and one member of the organization gave an interesting explanation of each.

The appearance of the noted band master was due to the efforts of Albert Edmund Brown, local manager for the Messers. Steiner.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Arthur Monty and Miss Antoinette Chaput, two well known young residents of Centralville, were married this morning at a nuptial mass celebrated at St. Louis' church at 8 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. J. B. Labossiere. During the mass appropriate hymns were sung by the Children of Mary sedately choir, of which the bride was a member. At the officiating Mr. Clifford Forrest of Lowell, a friend of the bride, and after elevation Miss Anne Brousseau sang an "O Salutaris." Miss Ida Mongrain presided at the organ. The bride wore white canton crepe with picture hat to match and carried a bouquet of white flowers. She was given away by her father, Mr. Philippe Chaput, while the groom was attended by his father, Mr. Henry J. Monty. At the close of the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, 40 Essex street. George Chaput, a brother of the bride, and Mrs. Monty, who were the recipients of numerous wedding gifts, left at noon on a honeymoon trip and upon their return in ten days they will make their home at 40 Essex street.

Gosselin-Parent

A pretty wedding took place this morning at St. Louis' church at 8:30 o'clock, when Mr. Joseph Arthur Gosselin and Miss Rose Irene Parent, two popular young people of this city were united in the bonds of matrimony. The ceremony was performed at a nuptial mass, celebrated by Rev. E. J. Vincent. The bride wore canton crepe with veil and carried bridal roses. She was given away by her brother, Mr. Alfred Parent of Boston, while the groom's witness was his father, Mr. Eugene Gosselin. At the close of the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to immediate relatives at the home of the groom's parents, 27 Henry avenue and at noon the happy couple left on an extended honeymoon trip. Upon their return Oct. 1 they will be tendered a reception at the home of the groom's parents. They will make their home in Hildreth street.

HOUSE PASSES SOLDIERS' BONUS BILL OVER PRESIDENT'S VETO

Measure on Second Voyage Through Congress—Senate Expected to Sustain Veto—Harding in Accord With Purpose But Sees No Means Provided to Finance Measure—Text of Message

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The house passed the soldiers' bonus bill today over President Harding's veto.

The vote was 288 to 54, or 50 more than the necessary two-thirds majority.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The soldiers' bonus bill, vetoed yesterday by President Harding, was to be started today on a second voyage through congress.

Favorable action by the house was looked for generally, but friends of the measure doubted that they could muster in the senate the two-thirds majority necessary to override the veto. The plan was to call up the bill in the house soon after noon and to have a roll call after an hour or two of debate.

The time of senate action was indefinite. Some favored the final test of strength immediately after the house vote, but others and these included several of the republican leaders, counseled delay until tomorrow.

AUTHORIZED TO CONTINUE WAR

Turkish Nationalists Assembled Extends Dictatorship of Mustapha Kemal Pasha

Authorizes Him to Continue War Until All Conditions in Pact Are Achieved

Agreement Between Great Britain and France on Near Eastern Problem Assured

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 20.—(By the Associated Press) The Turkish Nationalists assembly at Ankara by an overwhelming majority has extended the dictatorship of Mustapha Kemal Pasha and has authorized him to continue the war until all the conditions prescribed in the National pact have been fully achieved.

French Withdraw Troops LONDON, Sept. 20.—(By the Associated Press) Official confirmation was received here today from Constantinople stating that the French had withdrawn their troops from Chanak and that the Italians were apparently doing the same thing. The British forces is remaining alone at that point.

Reach Agreement at Paris

PARIS, Sept. 20.—An agreement between Great Britain and France on the Near Eastern problem, seemed reasonably assured after a two and one-half hour conversation between Premier Poincaré and Lord Curzon, British foreign secretary, at the French foreign office this forenoon.

The two ministers outlined to each other at great length the views of their governments, and considerable progress was believed to have been made toward an understanding.

Lord Curzon is understood to have informed M. Poincaré that Great Britain would insist upon the absolute freedom of the Straits of the Dardanelles and would insure this freedom by the presence of a large fleet.

The British foreign secretary, however, is said to have intimated that the British military effort in the Near East would be confined to the navy, which gave rise to the impression that British troops would soon be withdrawn from Chanak.

Premier Poincaré informed Lord Curzon that the French policy was decidedly pacific, its chief aim being to make peace as soon as possible. He urged the immediate calling of a peace conference for a final settlement on the basis of the Turkish remaining on the Asiatic side of the straits pending the outcome of the conference.

The two ministers were in agreement on the necessity of maintaining the freedom of the straits. Although it is understood there may be some differences of opinion as to the character of the control to be exercised.

EYE WITNESS OF DISASTER

U. S. Consul General Declares Smyrna Catastrophe Worst in History

Pays High Tribute to Work of Americans in Helping Refugees

ATHENS, Sept. 20.—By the Associated Press—"During my consulship at Saloniki, I was bombed by Bulgars and Germans and during my official career, I have had many rough experiences with submarines and fire, but never in my life have I seen anything like the Smyrna catastrophe," is the manner in which George Horton, the American consul general at Smyrna, in his first remarks of the disaster summed up to the Associated Press his experiences in Asia Minor.

Consul General Horton explained that his official position prevented his commenting on the incidents in Smyrna but said it was his duty to speak of the splendid heroism and self-sacrifice of the American colonists in Smyrna.

"Thousands of refugees, in the despairing city were absolutely hungry and destitute. Rufus W. Lane, an American engaged in Smyrna, spoke up on one occasion and said that they had not come to the meeting to look out for their own safety, but to look out for those of the starving people.

Francis W. Blackley, another American, agreed in this and gave 200 Turkish pounds to start a subscription list for the refugees. Stanley W. Smith of the Standard Oil Co., in Smyrna, gave 500 Turkish pounds.

"We started the work of relief immediately. The American firms contributed the use of their automobiles and trucks. They never saw them again because they were completely burned up. Representative Americans, members of the Y.M.C.A. and professors of the American college organized a central committee. Within an hour, while the automobiles were still in their possession and with the Stars and Stripes flying on their machines, they were all over the city administering relief.

We urged the American women teachers in the girls' school of the Y.W.C.A. to leave Smyrna but they refused to until driven by the flames.

"These brave women labored unceasingly without food and sleep. Some are still there." The consul general and his wife embarked on the U.S.S. destroyer Simpson with 65 other Americans and came to Athens. Vice Consul Maynard B. Barnes remained in the devastated city with 12 other Americans who were chiefly engaged in relief work.

FIGHTING IS IMMINENT

Fact That British Have Not Yet Massed Forces

British, However, Are Determined to Hold the Straits at All Cost

Turkish Forces Reported to Have Already Invaded Neutral Zone

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 20.—(By the Associated Press) Information that Mustapha Kemal Pasha is preparing to launch an attack for the possession of the Dardanelles in spite of the exhortations of General Pelle, French high commissioner, is causing undisguised anxiety in allied military circles in the capital. It is not improbable that such an attack will be made before the end of the present week, it is stated, the Turks taking advantage of the fact that the British have not yet concentrated all their forces.

Believe Fighting Imminent

The British, however, are declared to be determined to hold the straits at all cost, regardless of how formidable the Kemalists forces may be, and regardless of whether the British and fully participate in the defense.

One of the best evidences of the British determination to resist the Turks is the fact that many British subjects, including the families of officers, are leaving the city, believing that they believe the fighting is imminent.

Angora Government Warned

It is understood here, that the French cabinet warned the Angora government of the inadvisability of an assault on the neutral zone, but the nationalists are believed to have replied that the proposed attack is in the nature of a defensive and protective movement in view of Great Britain's military preparations in support of her alleged policy of depriving Turkey of Thrace.

The Kemalists are in dangerous proximity to the neutral zone, and a forward movement on their part will be followed by a Turkish advance.

BIDS OPEN FOR BRIDGE IN LUNDBERG STREET

Bids were opened this noon in the city engineer's office for a new bridge on Lundberg street with five concrete piers and two steel truss spans. The public service will meet later for the purpose of awarding the contract.

The appropriation for the work was $69,000, but three of the five bidders were well below this figure, while the other two were considerably above it. The lowest bidder was Z. A. Hottle of this city, who submitted a figure of $41,258 for the total cost. Second lowest was the McClintic-Marshall company of Pittsburgh, with offices in Boston, who bid $46,764. Next was the Boston Bridge company, whose figure was $52,008. The $5,000 deposit checks of these three bidders were held and it is thought that one of them will receive the contract later in the day.

The English construction company of this city submitted a bid of $76,700 and William Drapacou turned in a figure of $78,724. The specifications call for the completion of the work by December 31 of this year. Mr. Thorndike of the firm of Fry, Spofford & Thorndike of Boston, consulting engineers, was present and will meet with the board.

CITY AWAITS DEDICATION OF NEW AUDITORIUM TOMORROW

Raising of National and City Flags at 1 O'Clock Will Be First Ceremony of Day—Vice Presidential Salute of 19 Guns Will Roar Welcome to Coolidge in Mid-Afternoon—Retreat Formation at 5 P. M.—Exercises at 8 O'Clock With Distinguished Men as Speakers and Guests

With high national state and military executives in attendance to lend dignity and color to the occasion, the Lowell Memorial Auditorium will be formally dedicated and turned over to the city tomorrow evening at exercises that will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. It is expected that 4000 people will be in attendance.

Anticipating the significance of the occasion, decorations have begun to appear on the exterior of many buildings. The Cadillac and Buick buildings already have been artistically festooned with flags and red, white and blue bunting, while the fronts of the Howe and Fairbank buildings in the square, also are being decorated.

The program of the day, however, is not confined to the exercises of the evening, for it will embrace a fitting reception to His Excellency Calvin Coolidge, vice president of the United States, as he arrives by train at 4:40 p. m., including the vice presidential salute of 19 guns to be fired in one salvo by the Lowell battery, stationed on the Highland street level of the South common.

The first ceremony preceding the dedicatory exercises, however, will take place at approximately 1 o'clock, when the national emblem and the city flag will be run up to the peaks of the two flag poles that are embedded in granite bases on either side of the main Auditorium entrance.

Participating in this ceremony will be members of the Grand Army of the Republic, veterans of the Spanish war, World War veterans of the American

CONFEREES ON NEAR EASTERN SITUATION TO CALL PEACE CONFERENCE

PARIS, Sept. 20.—(By the Associated Press)—The allied conferees on the Near Eastern situation decided late today to call a peace conference of eight nations interested in a settlement to determine the terms of peace. This conference will meet probably within two or three weeks. The conference, it was announced, will consist of representatives of Great Britain, France, Italy, Turkey, Greece, Japan, Rumania and Yugoslavia.

PARKING AUTOMOBILES PLOT TO WRECK RAIL UNIONS

Plans Complete for Parking and Traffic Regulation at Auditorium

Careful arrangements have been made for the parking of automobiles and the regulation of all traffic in the vicinity of the Auditorium tomorrow evening.

From 6 p. m. the police department will restrict any parking whatsoever on both sides of East Merrimack street from Fayette to Davidson streets, leaving that area open for any passage of vehicles in both directions.

The main parking area will be in Brown street, which will be marked off by white stall lines. If additional space is necessary, one side of Stackpole street and one side of the Fayette street extension also will be utilized.

Uniformed traffic officers will be on the job early to direct all traffic by the building and to guide machines that wish to unload passengers at the entrances.

Again, the warning is given, that persons attending the exercises should arrive as early as possible. The doors will open at 7 o'clock.

Bonus Bill Back to Congress

It was their view that with the bonus issue disposed of, it would be difficult to keep a quorum for action on important matters awaiting decision before adjournment of congress.

In his message to the house, President Harding based his veto on the ground of the failure of congress to provide a method of financing and the consequent heavy drain it would prove on the treasury. He made it clear that the interest on the foreign debt could not be relied upon, asserting that even taking into account such payments as were likely to be received from that source, the treasury faced a deficit of $500,000,000 this fiscal year and an even further shortage in the scheduled year.

The president declared that enactment of the measure would wipe out the result of the administration's economy program and would entail further borrowings by the treasury, every one of which, he added, increased the national debt and delayed the adjustment to stable government financing and the diminution of federal taxes to the defensible cost of government.

Text of Veto Message

President Harding's bonus veto message follows:

"To the house of representatives: The bill, H. R. 10,374, a bill to provide adjusted compensation for the veterans of the World War and for other purposes."

"With the avowed purpose of the bill to give expression of a nation's gratitude to those who served in its defense in the World War I am in accord, but to its provisions I do not subscribe. The United States never will cease to be grateful. It cannot and never will cease giving expression to that gratitude."

"In legislating for what is called adjusted compensation congress failed, first of all, to provide the revenue from which the law was to be paid. Moreover, it establishes the very dangerous precedent of creating a Treasury government to pay which costs a billion, variously estimated between $1,000,000,000 and $5,000,000,000 upon the American people, not to discharge an obligation, which the government always must pay, but to bestow a bonus which the soldiers themselves, while serving in the World War did not expect."

Spending $510,000,000 This Year

"It is not to be denied that the nation has certain very binding obligations to those of its defenders who made real sacrifices in the World War and who left the armies injured, disabled or diseased so that they could not resume their places in the normal activities of life. These obligations are being gladly and generously met. Perhaps there are here and there a few chafe and indignation, and some deplorable instances of neglect, but they are all unintentional, and every

"The estimates for the year to follow are approximately $470,000,000, and the figures may need to be made larger. Though the peak in hospitalization may have passed, there is a growth in domiciliary care and the discharge in full of our obligations to the disabled, disabled or dependent who have a right to the government's care, with insurance liability added, will probably reach a total sum in excess of $25,000,000,000.

"More than 29,000 veterans are now enrolled in some of the 445 different courses in vocational training. Fifty-four thousand of them are in schools or colleges, more than 28,000 are in industrial establishments and a few more than 6000 are being trained in schools operated by the veterans' bureau.

Hospital Work and Payments

"Two hundred and seventy-six thousand patients have been hospitalized, more than 250,000 discharged and 25,675 patients are in our hospitals today.

"Four hundred and sixteen thousand awards of compensation have been made on account of death or disability and $20,000,000 have been paid to disabled men or their dependent relatives. One hundred and seventy-five thousand disabled ex-service men are now receiving compensation along with medical or hospital care where needed and 250,000 checks go out monthly in distributing the $2,000,000 payment on indispensible obligations.

A report similar to the foregoing was contained in a Belfast message to the London Daily Express today. This message declared De Valera was in hiding in Dublin and seeking through an intermediary to arrange a conference with the Free State leaders to discuss peace terms.

Get More Eggs — By Radio!

By N.E.A. Service
WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 20.—Give your hens free radio concerts and increase their egg production.

John G. Gaskill, junior champion poultry raiser of this county, offers this advice.

Musical has solved young Gaskill's problems and he says it will do likewise for other poultrymen. Charmed by the music of his piccolo, 30 hens laid 5040 eggs in seven months, he declares. One of the eggs had three yolks!

The record gave this 16-year-old champion a victory over 59 competitors and made his total poultry prizes 30 in three years.

Musical Does It
"Say it with music" is my motto," says Gaskill, explaining his success. "If you can't play, install a radio receiving set and get the broadcast concert music."

Almost every day I played the piccolo, flute or trumpet to my hens. They enjoyed it and laid more eggs as a result. At first I started to play them a cornet solo, but they seemed to have an aversion for that instrument.

When the radio was in its infancy,

I really believed this daily musical program was an important factor in my success.

"I believe the time will come when radio amplifiers will be attached to hen houses so the egg production may be increased by wireless telephone concerts from near and far."

Lectures Taboo
Beware of broadcast lectures or singing! This, says this poultry raiser, will decrease egg production. The hens like instrumental music only. So if the program calls for a song, tune out the station and search for a violin or orchestral selection from another broadcasting station.

"Any particular selection will do," says Gaskill. "In fact, I am not much of an artist on any of the instruments I play to my hens. Almost any old tune will put the flock in good humor."

For success in the poultry business Gaskill gives five principles:

1. Install electric lights in the hen-coops.
2. Furnish instrumental music to the hens.
3. Give them, clear water often.
4. Guard against poultry disease.
5. Keep the coops immaculate.

Young Peabody found that his set was incapable of tuning in waves above 400 or 500 metres, but by the use of loading coils possessing a concentrated inductance value, he built up the wave lengths. A honeycomb coil did the trick. He further experimented with outside aerials but found, through experience, that there was nothing more generally satisfactory than the single wire and when it was found that the available distance was too short two wave lengths were added and the natural wave lengths of the antenna showed an increase. These and other improvements have served to make the Peabody radio station an ideal one, especially for the reception of messages, and if any more features can be added to the radio, the Peabody's, no doubt, will be among the first to take advantage of them.

BETTER RADIO FOR SUBMARINES

By N.E.A. Service
WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Submarines of the United States navy will soon be equipped with the latest improvements in radio.

These improvements are such, say naval engineers, that they will be capable of sending messages up to a radius of 300 miles in the daytime and much farther at night. This is three times the distance spanned by the radio sets now installed in the submarines.

An order for 68 new sets of the latest type has been issued by the navy department. These sets, however, will be formed from old apparatus along a design set up after careful experimentation by the naval radio experts. It will mean a saving of nearly $300,000 in the cost of the sets.

Although detailed specifications of the new apparatus are withheld it is learned that they are of the latest type of vacuum tube apparatus. Their efficiency, it is said, will vie with those of the German submarines which succeeded in sending messages at night as far as 800 or 1000 miles to their bases.

The new apparatus on the American submarines will be able to receive long-wave signals while the craft is submerged to a depth of about 20 feet.

SENSATIONAL INCIDENTS

Mrs. Tiernan Collapsed Three Times During Severe Cross-Examination

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 20.—Debate over the admissibility of testimony of Prof. John Tiernan, regarding the marital relations of himself and wife is expected to be resumed when hearings are taken up today in the case of Mrs. Augusta Tiernan, wife of the professor, who charges Harry Poulin with the paternity of her 19-month-old child.

Testimony of Mrs. Tiernan, which was corroborated by her husband, was to the effect that the couple had discontinued marital relations several months prior to the beginning of the alleged affair between Mrs. Tiernan and Poulin.

Yesterday's hearing, which was taken up for the most part with the testimony of Mrs. Tiernan, was replete with sensational incidents.

Three times during the period which Mrs. Tiernan was being subjected to a merciless cross-examination, the witness collapsed, but on being revived, was able to continue. Throughout the trying ordeal, she stood firm and refused to change a single instance of her story of the affair with Poulin.

HEARST DELEGATES ARE BEATEN IN PRIMARY

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Most of the candidates for delegate to the democratic state convention who were pledged to vote for W. R. Hearst for governor were defeated in yesterday's primary.

In Albany county where Patrick E. McCabe, former democratic leader, backed the Hearst delegates, they were defeated by 20 to 1.

In Erie county (Buffalo) four Hearst delegates, supported by W. J. Conners, were elected, but 31 of the 33 delegates are chosen as followers of W. H. Fitzpatrick, county chairman and they have declared for Alfred E. Smith for the gubernatorial nomination.

In no other counties was an attempt made to elect Hearst delegates.

The organization delegates in Albany county are pledged to the candidacy for governor of former Representative Foster G. Tyack.

In response to a query as to what he believed the Albany county result showed in general on sentiment for Mr. Hearst, Mr. McCabe replied:

"I can't say. It's so meagrely that it seems to me I ought to shut up and say nothing."

In one district in Watervliet city not a single vote was cast for the Hearst delegates.

The organizations of two of the veteran republican leaders of the state, William Barnes of Albany and William L. Ward of Westchester, emerged completely triumphant from primary contests with insurgents.

EVANGELIST OPENS CAMPAIGN HERE

Rev. Arthur E. Bishop, D.D., evangelist, has opened a three week's campaign for the first Presbyterian church, the Westminster United Presbyterian church and the Evangelical association of Lowell. The first rally was held in the First Presbyterian church last evening and was largely attended.

The evangelist has already made a good impression by his forceful clarity of expression, easily holding the attention of his hearers. A good many men and women went forward at the close of his address last evening, thanking him for his message. His topic last night was "The Church's Greatest Need—The Power of the Holy Spirit."

The top elf to tonight will be "The Church's Greatest Responsibility." Sunday school night will be celebrated Friday evening, with "Evangelism" for the topic.

Umbrellas with detachable covers, which can be changed to match any individual gown, are the invention of an American woman.

KEEP TAB ON TRAFFIC BREAKERS IN N. Y.

(By N.Y.A. Service)
NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—New York motorists have resigned themselves to the duty of carrying their photographs with them and counting the increasing number of traffic warnings stamped on their identification cards.

Since August 1, this additional worry has been heaped on automobile owners who are residents of the metropolis.

At first, there was a general howl from all parts of the city. Branding the motorist by photograph was only a step below that of the fingerprint method, they cried. A test case was planned in an attempt to abolish the ordinance. But the city is still enforcing the rule.

Like London
The system is similar to that in force in London. Each motorist and driver of a horse-drawn vehicle supplies himself with an identification card, a duplicate of which is on file in the New York traffic bureau. His photograph is placed on each card, and with it is a description of the holder, his license number and other distinguishing facts.

Below his identification there are five blank spaces where record is kept of any minor traffic violation by the holder. It is a method of police warnings, five of which constitute sufficient cause for summoning the offender to court.

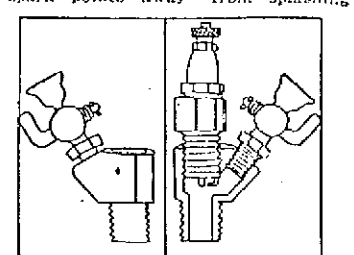

There are 16 minor offenses, the violation of which are noted on the cards. They run from driving from having a smoking engine to driving too close to a street car.

Operation
A policeman stopping a person for such violation enters it on the driver's card and notifies the traffic bureau. Thereafter the entry is made on the duplicate card on file.

When the card is filled, the motorist is brought to traffic court, where his infractions are reviewed and a penalty is imposed. Then a new card is issued. But a record of previous infractions are made on the new card in the traffic bureau.

In this way, a driver who has been warned too often could be held for a major traffic offense and would be liable to have his license revoked. What has pleased those subject to this ordinance is the fact that it applies only to residents of the city. Non-residents may procure identification cards for their own convenience, but only a few outsiders have taken advantage of this option.

Priming Connection
By means of a double joint, spark plug and priming cup are placed together in such a way as to keep the spark points away from splashing oil and direct the gasoline for priming to flow by the plug. The joint is screwed into the place of the spark plug.

LOWER RENTS BY AUTO AID

By ALFRED REEVES
General Manager N.A.C.C.
Recently, even as critical a mind as Roger W. Babson had pointed out that thousands of persons have been buying motor cars and moving into the suburbs.

A survey of the various real estate boards by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce developed the fact that around 60 cities in the country there are over 135,000 suburban homes depending chiefly on the motor car and the motor truck for transportation.

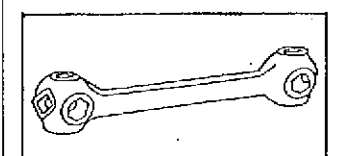

This release of housing pressure on the cities and the settling of families on less expensive land gives promise of lower rentals. A prediction in which many leading economists of the day concur.

CLEAN SPARK PLUGS
When the cylinder pump out the spark plugs will foul. A temporary prevention is to attach a half-inch 16-degree L to the cylinder head in place of the spark plug. The plug can then be screwed into the L so that it is safe from the harmful spray of oil.

UNIVERSAL WRENCH
A wrench that will fit all the nuts on a popular car and 90 per cent. of the nuts of all others is the advantage suggested by its Providence.

R. L. producers. Five different sized sockets in a butt shape at each end are intended to satisfy all purposes for which such a wrench would be needed.

LICENSE COMMISSION
The license commission granted the following licenses at its regular meeting held last night: To sell ice cream on the Lord's day, Ellen Anderson, 375 Adams street; Christian Anderson, 506 Market street; Margaret McKay, 225 Lincoln street; Yvonne Lavoite, 157 Perkins street; Mrs. Joseph Duffy, 277 Hildreth street. Retail vendor of soft drinks, Lucien P. Turcotte, 605 Merrimack street; express, Pierre A. Dussault, 145 Salem street; clothing house, Odette Gaudet, 310 E. Parkham, 45 Hurd street. Public amusement for dancing, Central Council, A.O.H., 310 Hildreth street; Hawker and pitcher, Joseph Plante, 30 Union street.

There are only 183 persons in France with an income exceeding $15,000 at the present rate of exchange.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem THE GARAGE MAN

Oh, motorists, I bid you all observe this individual,
Who never has a bit of time for play;
To judge by bills he tenders you for service that he renders you
There's forty hours in every working day!
In winter-time or clover-time he's always toiling overtime
(At any rate it reads so on the bills);
And yet he bears with bravery this unrelenting slavery
And prospers while he goes the pace that kills.

Your motor runs unsteadily? He looks it over readily,
Then shakes his head and says, with manner bleak,
"We'll have to take the car apart, your gears are running far apart,
Your crankshaft's bent—the job will take a week!"
Complaining very fretfully, you leave the car regretfully,
And when you're gone he takes your ailing churn
And rans it for a chug or two, puts in a new spark-plug or two
And—soaks you sixty bucks when you return!

Black grease is on his fingers there. I don't see how it lingers there,
The way he wipes it off upon your paint,
And on your seats luxurious, but though it's very curious,
His hands retain their black and grimy tint;
We curse his rates burgharious, we knock his notions various,
We say he's only out to gouge and rob,
But when the car runs jumpily and jerkily and grumpily,
Oh, gosh, we're glad to have him on the job!

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By the Theatres' Own Press Agents.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
Comedy that is lively and that will please any audience and music that touches one's deepest feelings are among the signal points of this week's bill at the B. F. Keith theatre. "The Venetian Five" gives the music which is so inspiring of "Silent Men," and Bronson & Edwards offer comedy features. If you have never seen "Macon," don't delay. He is one of the unapologetic funniest of our little world today, and Bronson & Edwards who close the show are tomfoolers. Then comes "The Venetian Five," unquestionably one of the biggest of veridicalists. It is a bill fit for a king. Other acts on the bill are Jess Libonati, xylophonist; Mason & Gwynne, singers, and Sultan, the trained canary.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
Final performances will be given this evening at the Merrimack Square theatre of "The Valley of Silent Men," James Oliver Curwood's noted story, starring Alma Rubens. There will be an entire change of program tomorrow afternoon.

Features for Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be "Her Glided Cage," starring Gloria Swanson, a gorgeous romance of crisis and New York and "The Seventh Day," starring Richard Barthelmess. The third big attraction will be "The Fighting Torches," starring John Hines in one of his best comedies.

In Gloria Swanson's new star picture, "The Glided Cage," a Sam Wood production, Elmer, a brilliant adaptation from the play by Anne Nichols, David Powell appears as leading man in the role of a man who is a doctor.

Miss Swanson has one of the most striking roles of her career—a poor girl, who through the agency of the press and an able publicity agent, is forced into a position of prominence on the stage with attendant sensational features. That she is doing this for the purpose of making money to aid in the cure of her temporarily crippled sister, the public does not know. The love affair which develops between the artist who finds in his former model, whom he has learned to cherish, a famous stage celebrity, is strong and sympathetically painted. The supporting players are exceptionally well cast.

In "The Seventh Day," the other feature for the second half of the week, which Richard Barthelmess in the underlined role, a romance between the lives of people who think that toil is the panacea for all trouble and the lives of the type of people found today in the large cities, it portrays a man, a story, an original by Porter Emerson Browne, is a simple narrative in which the star's simple, sincere manner of acting carries conviction. To the isolated Maine seacoast town comes a young fellow who acquires a blue and flappers who are forced to live away from their homes because their engine has broken down.

Even jazz and "put and take" become tiresome and the metropolis starts to explore the place at which Kismet has landed them. Young John Allen falls madly in love with a girl, a girl, who, in the end of luxury, allows him to escort her about. It is just a game to the girl but deadly serious to the boy and it is the realization of impending crisis that brings out the true disposition of both.

RIALTO THEATRE
An exceptionally strong program adorns the screen of the Rialto theatre beginning this afternoon and continuing over tomorrow. The feature introduces a Thomas H. Ince production, entitled "Mother of Mine," with an all-star cast performing. This is a tragic drama of mother love and sacrifice, and it carries with it an appeal that will go straight to the heart. Other features on the Rialto screen for today and tomorrow are "The Fighting Torches," "Never Let Go," also William Desmond in "Doomed," a Johnny Hines comedy, "Terchy's Ghost," and the "Fable Comedy."

DISCUSSED PLANS FOR WINTER COURSES

A number of members of the Morgan club held a dinner last night at the Allardvale farm at which time plans for winter courses were talked over at great length. President John P. Cryan was in the chair.

Dennis A. Dooley, of the university extension department of the Massachusetts state board of education, outlined several courses which he thought would prove beneficial to Lowell people. John J. Morgan, after whom the club was named, and who gave courses in salesmanship and business administration last year, was present and gave a most pleasing talk on his many experiences with the classes here last year. He said that he believed that interest in the courses would be much greater this year if the opportunities presented by them became known to more people.

Hugh J. Molloy, superintendent of schools, was present as a guest and expressed great interest in the work and said that the school department would give assistance in every way possible to promote the educational program.

President Cryan suggested a mass meeting in the high school auditorium at some future date at which the details of the various courses could be presented to the public.

Free Staters Continue Campaign.

BELFAST, Sept. 20.—(By the Associated Press)—The National troops continue their vigorous campaign against the Republicans. In the course of a cleanup of county Sligo, in which the Nationals converged from six points upon a village where the republicans had their headquarters, 50 prisoners were taken, together with all their weapons. A drive on the Republican positions in Kinlough and Tulaghan, northern county Leitrim, yesterday, also yielded a large number of prisoners. Two soldiers and two Republicans were shot dead in an ambush Monday night at Dunderm, County Tipperary. A motor driver conveying women and children home, was shot dead near Tralee, County Kerry, and the car seized.

its worth. This is not compensation, but rather a pledge by the congress, while the executive branch of the government is left to provide for payments falling due in ever increasing amounts.

"When the bill was under consideration in the house I expressed the conviction that any grant of bonus ought to provide the means of paying it, and I was unable to suggest any plan other than that of a general sales tax. Such a plan was unacceptable to the congress, and the bill has been enacted without even a suggested means of meeting the cost.

"Indeed, the cost is not definitely known, either for the immediate future, or in the ultimate settlement. The treasury estimates, based on what seems the most likely exercise of the options, figures the direct cost at approximately $142,000,000 for 1923, $225,000,000 for 1924, $14,000,000 for 1925, $12,000,000 for 1926, making a total of $275,000,000 for the first four years of its operation, and a total cost in excess of $4,000,000,000.

"Abuse of Public Credit"

"No estimate of the large indirect

cost over had been made. The certificate plan sets up no reserve against the ultimate liability. The plan avoids any considerable direct outlay by the government during the earlier years of the bill's proposed operations, but the loans on the certificates would be floated on the credit of the nation.

"This is borrowing on the nation's credit, just as truly as though the loans were made by direct government borrowing, and involves a dangerous abuse of public credit. Moreover, the certificate plan of payment is little less than certified inability of the government to pay, and invites a practice of sacrificial barter, which I cannot sanction.

Would Add One-Sixth to Public Debt

"In a war remembering that the public credit is founded on the popular belief in the defensibility of public expenditure, as well as the government's ability to pay. Loans come from every rank in life, and our heavy tax burdens reach directly and indirectly, every element in our citizenship.

"To add one-sixth of the total sum of our public debt for a distribution among less than 5,000,000 out of 110,000,000, whether inspired by grateful sentiment or political expediency, would undermine the confidence on which our credit is built and establish the precedent of distributing public funds to a favored class of citizens. Congress clearly appraised the danger of borrowing directly to finance a bestowal which is without obligation and manifestly recognized the financial problems with which the nation is confronted. Our maturing promises to pay within the current fiscal year amount to approximately $1,000,000,000, most of which will have to be refunded within the next six years more than $10,000,000,000 of debt will mature and will have to be financed.

"A Perversion of Public Funds"

"These outstanding and maturing obligations are difficult to meet without the complication of added borrowings, every one of which threatens higher interest and delays the adjustment to stable government financing and the diminution of federal taxes to the defensible cost of government.

"It is sometimes thoughtlessly urged that it is a simple thing for the rich republic to add $4,000,000,000 to its indebtedness. This question comes from the readiness of the public response to the government's appeal for funds amid the stress of war. It is to be remembered that in the war everybody was ready to give his all. Let us not recall the comparatively few exceptions. Citizens of every degree of competence loaned and sacrificed, precisely in the same spirit that our armed forces went out for service. The war spirit impelled.

"In a war necessity there was but one answer, but a peace bestowal on the ex-service men, as though the supreme offering could be paid for with cash, is a perversion of public funds, a reversal of the policy which exalted patriotic service in the past and suggests that future defense is to be inspired by compensation rather than consciousness of duty to flag and country.

"Would Wipe Out Economies"

"The pressing problem of the government is that of diminishing our burdens rather than adding thereto. It is the problem of the world, for inflation and war expenditures have unbalanced budgets and added to indebtedness until the whole world is staggering under the load; we have been driving in every direction to curtail our expenditures and establish economies without impairing the essentials of government activities. It has been a difficult and unpopular task. It is vastly more applauded to expend than to deny.

"After nearly a year and a quarter of insistence and persuasion with a concerted drive to reduce government expenditure in every quarter possible, it would wipe out everything thus far accomplished to add now the proposed burden, and it would read the commitment of economy and saving so essential to our future welfare. "The financial problems of the government are too little heeded until we are face to face with a great emergency. The diminishing income of the government, due to the receding tides of business and attending incomes, has been overlooked momentarily, but cannot be long ignored. The latest budget figures for the current fiscal year show an estimated deficit of more than $250,000,000, and a further deficit for the year succeeding, even after counting upon all interest collections on foreign indebtedness which the government is likely to receive. To add to our pledges to pay, except as necessity compels, must seem no less than governmental folly.

Question of Pensions
"Inevitably it means increased taxation, which congress was unwilling to levy for the purpose of this bill and will turn us from the course toward economy so essential to promote the activities which contribute to common welfare. It is to be remembered that the United States played no self-seeking part in the World War and pursued an unselfish policy after the cause was won. We demanded no reparation for the cost involved, no payments out of which obligations to our soldiers could be met. I have not magnified the willing outlay in behalf of those to whom we have a sacred obligation.

"It is essential to remember that a more than $4,000,000,000 pledge to the able-bodied ex-service men now will not diminish the later obligations which will have to be met when the younger veterans of today shall contribute to the rolls of the aged, indigent and dependent. It is as inevitable as that the years will pass, that pension provision for World War veterans will be made, as it has been

They are Happy
and Well

You Should Be the Same

A LARGE number of women's ailments are not surgical ones. Serious displacements or radical changes have not yet taken place.

A tiny part in a fine clock may become loose and cause the clock to gain or lose. If not attended to in time, the part may fall from its place and cause serious trouble. So it is with women's ailments, they start from simple causes; but if allowed to continue, produce serious conditions.

When the warning symptoms are first noted, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve the present troublesome ailment, and to prevent the development of serious trouble.

Portland, Ind.—"I was troubled with irregularity and constipation and would often have to lie down because of pains. One Sunday my aunt was visiting us and she said her girls took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got well, so mother said she guessed she would let me try it. It is doing me good and I praise it highly. You are welcome to use this letter as a testimonial."—STELLA NEWTON, R. R. No. 8, Portland, Ind.

Baltimore, Md.—"For several months I suffered with severe backache and general weakness. I could not sleep comfortably at night for pains in my back. I found your book at home and after reading it began at once to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have had very good results and some of my girl friends are taking it now. You may use this letter to help other girls as the letters in your book helped me."—ROSE WATKINS, 3018 Roseland Place, Baltimore, Md.

made for those who served in previous wars. It will cost more billions than 1 venture to suggest.

Regrets the Disappointment

"There will be justification when the need is apparent, and a rational financial policy today is necessary to make the nation ready for the expenditure, which is certain to be required in the coming years. The contemplation of such a policy is in accord with the established practice of the nation, and puts the service men of the World War on the same plane as the millions of men who fought the previous battles of the republic. "I confess a regret that I must sound a note of disappointment to the many ex-service men who have the impression that it is a simple matter for the government to bestow billions in peace as it was to expend billions in war. "I regret to stand between them and the pitifully small compensation proposed. I dislike to be out of accord with the majority of congress which has voted the bestowal. The simple truth is that this bill proposes a government obligation of more than $4,000,000,000 without a provision of funds for the extraordinary expenditure which the executive branch of the government must finance in the face of difficult financial problems and the complete defeat of our commitment to effect economies. "Appeal to Candid Reflection: "I would rather appeal, therefore, to the candid reflections of congress and the country, and to the ex-service men in particular as to the course better suited to further the welfare of our country. "These ex-soldiers who served so gallantly in war and who are to be so conspicuous in the progress of the half century before us, must know that nations can only survive where taxation is restrained from the limits of oppression, where the public treasury is locked against class legislation, but ever open to public necessity and prepared to meet all essential obligations. "Such a policy makes a better country for which to fight, or to have fought, and affords a sure abiding place in which to live and attain. "WARREN G. HARDING."

MALTA, Sept. 20.—Various units of the British Atlantic fleet are on their way to join the naval forces in the Dardanelles, but the authorities here are reticent as to details.

It is learned, however, that a second modern destroyer flotilla, composed of the most modern vessels, has been ordered from England, and that the light cruisers Caledon and Carysfort are due here shortly on their way to Constantinople. The destroyer Seraph left here yesterday for Constantinople.

Report Invasion Underway

LONDON, Sept. 20.—(By the Associated Press.) The misunderstanding or misrepresentation of the situation arises from a confusion of the zone of the Straits as provided in the treaty of Sevres with the neutral zone established by declaration of the allies in May, 1921.

Mustapha Kemal is believed to be in Smyrna, whence it is announced he sent his request for permission to occupy Thrace as recorded in an Associated Press despatch yesterday.

The situation on the whole is discussed more calmly today although the protagonists in the campaign against the government's "policy of force" continue their vehement attacks.

GOLF RECORD ALREADY AT AGE OF 12

By N. E. A. Service
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 19.—Gene Sarazen or some other golf champion of the masculine persuasion may expect to face strong competition on the links within the next few years from a girl, and one not out of her teens, either.

So, at any rate, golf experts say, and their candidate is little Lucille De Long.

LUCILLE DE LONG

Long, a Springfield girl of 12, who has just set a public course record for women here.

Her score for the 18 holes was 83, and she made it as one of a foursome including, besides herself, three of the best public course and club players locally available.

To prove that it was no fluke Lucille played the Country club course of nine holes—well known among golfers as a tough course, too in 41, and recently she made a score of 43 at the Peoria Country club.

The girl has been playing only two years, but she has had the advantage of the coaching of Jim Barnes, the noted golfer, who predicts that she will be in the world's championship class before many more years.

Though only a little bit of humanity, weighing 65 pounds, Lucille has the stamina to go through a gruelling match with any player who cares to try conclusions with her. She plays carefully, drives with perfect form and, on the green, puts like a veteran.

FIREMEN OF STATE IN CONVENTION AT LYNN

LYNN, Sept. 20.—The 43rd annual convention of the Massachusetts State Firemen's association was opened yesterday in Odd Fellows hall, with 1500 delegates present. Members of the Ladies' Auxiliary attended.

Ex-Chief Peter E. Walsh of Boston, president of the association, called the convention to order, with Mayor Harold A. McPherson delivering the welcoming address. A letter of regret was read from Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Secretary State Frederick Cook representing Gov. Cox, made a brief address.

Other speakers were Chief Edward E. Chase of the local fire department, William H. Cochran, president of the city council, and Deputy Chief Welsh, chairman of the reception and entertainment committee.

The report of Secretary Daniel J. Coney of Boston, that the association now has a paid-up membership of nearly 8000 members was received with much applause. The reports of Chief Fred A. Leonard on the convention of the International Association of Fire Engineers in Atlantic City, and of Chief Peter E. Walsh of Boston on the convention in San Francisco, were entertaining and instructive.

Chief Chase has shifted slightly the route of the parade Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. It will be the first time the entire personnel of the department has turned out since the introduction of the two-platoon system, in February, 1920.

Headquarters for the auxiliary are in Hotel Seymour.

COL. WM. A. GASTON THANKS LOWELL

A COAL FACT

Coal is going to be short throughout this winter. There is no way out of it. Realize that the Anthracite mines were closed over five months. Enough hard coal cannot be mined to supply people this winter.

SOLUTION!

Burn Pennsylvania Lump or British Admiralty Coal. These coals will not fall through the grates and will give off a good steady hot fire. Many people in Lowell use Lump Coal in their boilers and furnaces every year, and this coal is used entirely in the West and South. We urge people having boilers and furnaces to purchase at least two months' supply of this Coal now.

URGE SUPPORT OF H. S. ATHLETICS

Headmaster Henry H. Harris called a meeting of all high school pupils this morning for the purpose of discussing the school athletic fund. The upper class pupils assembled in the Cyrus W. Irish auditorium and the lower classmen in the Frank F. Coburn hall where they were addressed by Sub-Master Frederick B. Woodward. Mr. Harris presided over the auditorium gathering.

In keeping with a custom established in recent years, it was explained to the students that a fee of five cents per week for 22 weeks or a cash payment of $1.10 would entitle the pupil to membership in the School Athletic association with the right to obtain tickets for athletic events of the current season. Last year the financial support accorded the various teams was gratifying and it is hoped that the present year will witness a repetition of the same spirit. Mr. Harris explained that the football and basketball teams of the high school are not self-supporting. Track is the only branch of athletics that pays. In football a year ago, 50 players were equipped with playing paraphernalia at a cost of approximately $15 per man. It was for the purpose of defraying, partially at least, such an expenditure as this that the athletic association was organized. With the increased enrollment at the school this year, athletic receipts should show a substantial increase.

LOCAL INTEREST IN "AD" CONVENTION

Delegates from 44 clubs in many cities throughout New England attended the meeting of the New England Associated Ad clubs, held yesterday in Boston. Preliminary plans for the big convention, to be held in Providence on November 15, 17 and 19, were discussed. A prize will be awarded the club with the largest attendance at the convention.

Edward J. Conney of the Lowell Ad club has been appointed a committee of one to encourage attendance from this city. The local club will also endeavor to present the famous hour-bush of the Lowell organization to compete with "The Crows," the male songsters of the Providence Criers. It is also probable that an exhibit of Lowell-made goods will be displayed. "Another important transaction at yesterday's meeting was the establishing of a speakers' bureau. The Lowell club was requested to make out a list of speakers and submit the names to the bureau. These speakers will then be at the disposal of the various New England clubs. Edward W. Gallagher, secretary of the Lowell Ad club attended the meeting.

HELD LADIES' NIGHT

The first annual ladies' night of the season was held at the Grand Hotel, 2 club rooms last evening and proved very enjoyable. There were about 75 couples present, and dancing was enjoyed till a late hour. Music was furnished by the club orchestra. An exhibition dance was given by Messrs. Conroy and Chase. There will be another ladies' night Tuesday, October 3. All members and their friends are cordially invited to attend.

TARIFF UP TO HARDING

Senate Votes 43 to 28 on Final Roll Call—Measure to Yield $400,000,000

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Final legislative action on the tariff act of 1922 was taken yesterday with adoption of the conference report by the senate. The measure now goes to President Harding and will become effective the day after he signs it. Under the law he has 10 days in which to attach his signature.

The senate vote was 43 to 28 and came exactly 1 year, 8 months and 13 days after work was started on what will be the first republican protective tariff law in nearly 10 years.

Five republicans voted against the conference report and two democrats supported it. Three republicans, Cameron, Cummins and Lenroot, who voted for the bill as amended in the senate, opposed it in the form it came from conference.

The roll-call follows:
Pro adoption—Republicans: Ball, Brandegee, Bursum, Capper, Colt, Curtis, Dillingham, Dupont, Edge, Ernst, France, Frettaghuyssen, Gooding, Hale, Harrell, Jones of Washington, Kellogg, McClellan, McCumber, McLean, McNary, Moses, Nelson, Newberry, Nicholson, Norbeck, Oddie, Penner, Phillips, Rawson, Reed of Pennsylvania, Shreve, Smith, Standfield, Sterling, Sutherland, Townsend, Wadsworth, Warren and Watson of Indiana—41.
Democrats: Broussard and Randall—2.
Total—43.

Against adoption—Republicans: Borah, Cameron, Cummins, LaFollette and Lenroot—5.
Democrats: Ashurst, Dial, Fletcher, Gerry, Glass, Harrison, Hoffman, Hitchcock, King, McKellar, Myers, Reed of Missouri, Robinson, Sheppard, Shields, Simmons, Smith, Stanley, Swanson, Trammell, Underwood, Walsh of Massachusetts and Williams—23.
Total—28.
Treasury experts estimate that the new act will yield about $400,000,000 a year in revenue, one-half from these four sources: sugar, $50,000,000; raw wool, $85,000,000; tobacco, $35,000,000, and laces and embroideries, $15,000,000.

Ready For President

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The administration tariff bill was made ready today for President Harding, who was expected to complete its enactment into law within a few days.

Immediately after the adoption of the conference report late yesterday by the senate, the bill was sent on its way to be engrossed and with the completion of that work this forenoon, it was to be signed by Speaker Gillett and Senator Cummins, republican, Iowa, president pro tempore of the senate.

In the senate vote yesterday, Senators Cummins and Lenroot, republicans, Wisconsin, joined with Senators Borah of Idaho, LaFollette of Wisconsin and Cameron of Arizona, republicans, in opposing the measure. Mr. Lenroot had warned that unless substantial cuts were made in the rates, what he described as the high rates in the bill, he would oppose its final passage.

Senator Cummins voted against approval of a number of the rates, but supported the measure when it first passed the senate.

PLAN FR. MATHEW DAY OBSERVANCE

Preparations for the Mathew Temperance Institute's elaborate celebration of Fr. Mathew's day on Oct. 10 are approaching completion, according to the report of the committee in charge of the observance, read at last night's weekly meeting. Nothing will be left undone, apparently, which would render the occasion more enjoyable. Indications point to a record-breaking attendance at the banquet and dance.

The committee on ladies' nights report everything in order for the first of the series on Thursday evening of next week.

The M.T.I. bowling league is about ready to start its season. The members of the various teams will be chosen from a long list of names submitted by those who wish to participate in the rolling. The opening games will be rolled in the near future, and interest will be kept alive until the beginning of Lent at least. The boys have always been well patronized by the Mathews, and when the lineup of the teams are made known it will be seen that the league is one of the fastest in the city.

BUYS TARBELL RESIDENCE

Mrs. Josephine Marin, widow of the late Joseph Marin, of 213 Pawtucket street, has purchased the residence of H. W. Tarbell, the landscape gardener, at 85 Myrtle street. This property consists of a large house and about 3000 square feet of land. Mrs. Marin has purchased for a home and will move into it within a couple of days. It is said that the price paid was in the vicinity of $8000.

City Awaits Dedication of New Auditorium Tomorrow

Drama, surprise, heartbreak and delight fills the seventh day in the romance of a man who didn't know women and a society woman who didn't know herself.

World War Veterans in Memorial hall, Merrimack street, and it is expected that several of the dignitaries who are to take part in the dedicatory exercises will attend.
In ample time to reach the Auditorium by 7:50 o'clock, the body will form in Merrimack street, just above city hall and march to the building, headed by Regan's band.
The uniform for the day will be field service, except as particularly designated. All ex-service men, whether members of the Legion or not, are invited to take part in the flag raising exercises at noon, and the retreat formation and as large a delegation as possible is expected at all ceremonies.
The evening program, already published as approved by the building commission, will include addresses by Vice President Coolidge, Governor Channing H. Cox, Major General Clarence H. Edwards and Congressman John Jacob Rogers. The key to the building will be turned over to the city by John H. Harrington, chairman of the commission, and will be accepted for the city by Mayor George H. Brown.
The invocation will be given by Rev.

Admission By Ticket Only
Chairman John H. Harrington today stressed the fact that a great many people who have received invitations to attend the exercises have not replied, as is necessary if tickets are to be secured. Evidently some persons are under the impression that the invitation itself will admit the bearer to the exercises, but this is not so, as a ticket will be an absolute necessity.

A request has been made of all local mill agents to allow any of their employees who are members of the battery, to remain away from their work in the afternoon, without suffering loss of pay. This request has been made at the suggestion of the building commission, then military authorities and city officials.

If a person desires to enjoy every bit of tomorrow evening's program he must be seated before 8 o'clock. Otherwise, late-comers will be obliged to wait in the corridors until a program number is finished. In other words, the ushers will escort no person to a seat except during intervals in the program.

The city council, as the result of a conference held last night, will meet in Liberty hall before the exercises and enter the Auditorium in a body. Councilors also will attend the flag-raising ceremony at noon.

Commander Franklin S. Pavey of Post 150, G.A.R., has arranged to have the members of his post report at headquarters in the veterans' wing at 7:30 o'clock promptly.

All Grand Army men will march into the Auditorium in a body, to be given seats of honor on the main floor.

COLLINS "SIZES UP" GIANTS

Star Second Baser Writes Series of World Series Articles For The Sun

Calls Present Giant Infield One of Greatest in History of Game

This is the first of seven articles written for The Sun by Eddie Collins of the Chicago White Sox. Collins has played in more World Series games than any other major league player.

BY EDDIE COLLINS.

World's Greatest Second Baseman. Following a series of 11 games this past spring between the Giants and White Sox, which was bitterly fought and closely contested, I remarked to McGraw: "You've got the best National League team I ever saw."

With the possible exception of one position, center field, which I hear Cunningham and the veteran Stenhouse have filled most acceptably, I did not see how a single man could have been replaced with any advantage gained by the Giants.

With any pitching at all it looked a cinch for them to walk home, and apparently with very little need to slug their way to another pennant.

As this story is being written it looks as though the Pirates at present were playing the best ball of any National League team, but I am of the opinion their rush is too late, and for this reason I will confine my discussion to the Giants alone, as the most probable National League World Series contestants.

The infield of the old Chicago club and the Athletics of former days, it is admitted, were pretty good, but if either of those two had anything on the present Giant inner works, those alone will tell it's a cinch none could have begun better.

Ideal First Baseman. Taken individually, Kelly is an ideal first baseman, possessed with the best arm I've seen in baseball. A sure-hitter, he is as consistent a performer as a manager could desire. Over a .300 hitter, a slugger distinctly, not fast, but he is dangerous at all times.

At second base, in Frankie Frisch, I think the Giants have the best ball player in the National League. As I make this statement I can hear the name of Hornsby mentioned. In justice to the latter, let me say it's never been my pleasure to see him perform in a league game, but if he can better the work of my Fordham friend, in all departments of play, he's got to go home.

As a fielder, base runner, hitter (either right or left handed), slugger or bunter, the best compliment I can think of to pay Frankie is he is the Sinker of the National League.

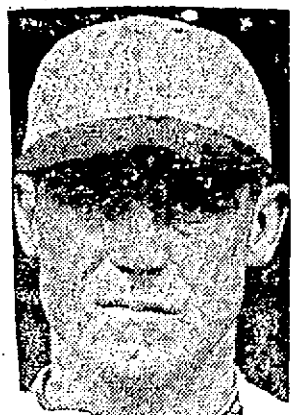

In Bawcock at short, I think you see a typical McGraw man—at his best when the going is the toughest. Not as consistent or steady as some shortstops, but one who can rise to dizzy heights and save many a game. There may have been better National League shortstops, but never on a Giant team.

Groh counts out the infield at third to perfection. Handicapped this year by injury, but when himself, a wonderful fielder, especially of hard-hit balls. Groh is a most dangerous man at hit and best hit-and-run man on the club.

Best Utility Man. In Johnny Rawlings, McGraw has undoubtedly the best utility man in baseball.

With Young, next to Frisch, the best ball player on the club, I think.

World Series Comparisons of Probable Contenders—First Base Suppose Pennant Title Depends on Shocker?

POP BOTTLE THREATENED WITH EXPULSION

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—The pop bottle, as much a part of a ball game as hot dogs and peanuts, is threatened with expulsion from big league society.

Major League Baseball, in announcing that he expected to bring the matter up for discussion during the winter meetings, Johnson attempted a similar move years ago but was overruled.

The revival of the bottle crusade is the result of the happening in the New York-St. Louis game last Saturday when Whitey Witt of the Yanks was knocked unconscious by a pop bottle, thrown by a fan.

Mouzel and other Cunningham or Stengel to take care of the outfield, and either Smith or Snyder behind the bat, McGraw can put a team on the field that looks hard to beat.

However, the one apparent weakness in the Giants' style of play in its lack of a pinch runner.

Rarely is the "unexpected" pulled by any of its members. I am told McGraw does not encourage initiative on the part of any of even his more experienced men.

From my observation I have always found McGraw's teams playing minimum baseball, rarely resorting to the sacrificial game, unless in the very late stages and the score tied.

On the contrary, if only one behind, it appears as though he says to his men "win or lose it is in this inning; don't play to tie."

With a pitching staff, or even two men—all that are really needed in a World Series—that measured up any way close to the calibre of the rest of the team, McGraw's opponent would be the one who would have to do all the worrying.

Nehf I admired, and liked his work and actions immensely. He reminded me greatly of Eddie Plank. Why he hasn't done better this year, I can't imagine.

Scott I've never seen work, but the rest don't look formidable enough to me to stop the American League onslaught.

PIPP

In the two major leagues. His fielding is on a par with his batting. Sisler is the logical successor to Ty Cobb as the game's greatest all-around player.

Walter Pipp, New York Yankee—Pipp is now playing the best game of his career. His work during the last half of the season has been a feature of the Yankees' play. His hitting has been most timely. His fielding game is better than ever. He hits and throws left-handed.

KELLY

George Kelly, New York Giant—Kelly is the style first sacker that makes a hit with the rest of the infield. Standing well over six feet, he is a great target for the other players on a hurried throw. He bats and throws right-handed. Like all free swingers he has a tendency to strike out often, but is a dangerous hitter. The honors at first base go to Sisler.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

If Newport Johnny Brown wins over Freddie Williams here tomorrow night, according to Billy Henderson, manager of the Dorchester boxer, is far from an easy one.

Hugan has held the featherweight championship for some time, but Hayes and many other managers expect the title to go to Billy Henderson, manager of the Dorchester boxer, is far from an easy one.

Baseball fans throughout the country but in Boston in particular, will regret the death of Jake Stahl, which occurred at Chicago yesterday.

Stahl was a great athlete and his success in college athletics brought him later into prominence in major league baseball. He was born at Elkhart, Ind., April 3, 1881.

He was a star football and baseball player at the University of Illinois from 1900 to 1905. His athletic prowess brought him under the eyes of major league baseball scouts.

The late Frank Seale sought him for the Chicago National but the Boston Americans obtained him as a pitcher in 1908.

He went to the Washington club as manager the next year, remaining until 1910. He later returned to the Boston American club which was under his leadership won the famous 1912 world series from the New York Giants.

The St. Columbus' team, which has enjoyed a most successful season on the local scene, will meet the C.M.A.C. Cadets, another fast team, which has piled up a great record during the past few months.

The light-heavyweight boxing contest of the world's series, which will be the third and deciding game between these two well matched teams and an exciting battle is expected. Each has a victory to its credit and the winner will claim the city amateur championship.

Murray and Charotte will be the battery for St. Columbus team. The Cadets will put forth its strongest lineup of the season. Then on Sunday afternoon the St. Columbus' team will bring its 1922 season to a close at home at home at home.

Sanford against the strong St. Benedict's team.

leading bowlers in Lowell and surrounding towns. The organizers are in hopes of making this year's league even a bigger and a better one than its predecessor.

With the return of polo to this city a great many fans are already speculating on the make-up of the Lowell team. During the past few years a great many men have been identified with local teams, last year particularly, when more than 25 men were seen in Lowell uniforms.

This year, however, the managers plan to assemble as strong a team as possible at the outset, and hold it intact if possible.

The teams have already drawn their colors. Worcester will hold the purple, which it has used for several seasons. Lowell will stick to red and white. Providence dark brown, New Bedford green, Portland blue and white, and Nashua orange and black.

The late Frank Seale sought him for the Chicago National but the Boston Americans obtained him as a pitcher in 1908.

He went to the Washington club as manager the next year, remaining until 1910. He later returned to the Boston American club which was under his leadership won the famous 1912 world series from the New York Giants.

The St. Columbus' team, which has enjoyed a most successful season on the local scene, will meet the C.M.A.C. Cadets, another fast team, which has piled up a great record during the past few months.

The light-heavyweight boxing contest of the world's series, which will be the third and deciding game between these two well matched teams and an exciting battle is expected. Each has a victory to its credit and the winner will claim the city amateur championship.

Murray and Charotte will be the battery for St. Columbus team. The Cadets will put forth its strongest lineup of the season. Then on Sunday afternoon the St. Columbus' team will bring its 1922 season to a close at home at home at home.

Sanford against the strong St. Benedict's team.

Ken Williams Makes 39th Homer—Giants and Pirates Open Big Series

Homer—Giants and Pirates Open Big Series

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The New York Yankees were a motor over their second consecutive American League championship today as a result of defeating Ty Cobb's batting Tigers, 4 to 3, in the first game of the series, while the St. Louis Browns, again without the services of George Sisler, showing a reaction from the effects of their losing struggle with the Huguenots, succumbed to Washington by the same score.

The Yankees increased their lead in the race to two and a half games. They can clinch the pennant by taking seven of their remaining nine games, even if St. Louis wins all eight of its contests.

Sam Jones of the Yankees and Herbie Pilleto, Cobb's striking ace, both got off to a rocky start but Jones was airtight after the second inning, while his rival weakened in the seventh and eighth when New York pushed over the tying and winning runs. Babe Ruth's 14th homer, a double shot by Schaefer and Jones and extra base walks by Pipp and Meusel were scoring factors for the Yanks.

Ken Williams of the Browns matched Ruth's circuit clout with his 39th, putting him two ahead of Eddie Plank, hero of the St. Louis Cardinals and increasing the probability that he will displace the Babe as this year's home run chief.

The New York Giants, holding the seemingly impregnable lead of five and a half games, were ready to battle the second game Pittsburgh outfit in the first of a three-game series today. The Pirates gained a half game in the race by trimming Philadelphia 6 to 1, while the champions of the National League held their eighth National League title since 1900, need win but seven of their 13 games even if the Pirates capture all 10 contests.

Two recruit twirlers, Motieau and Winn, pitched Cleveland to a decisive victory over the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 1, and 3 to 2. Neither issued a base on balls.

Hornsby hit safely in his 33rd consecutive game while St. Louis downed the Boston Braves, 8 to 4, in the other game played in either major league.

Pennant Chances Dimmed

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 20.—Visions of the first baseball championship for St. Louis in 31 years were dimmed today as a result of the St. Louis Americans' defeat at the hands of the Washington Senators, 4 to 1, while the Cleveland Indians, increasing the margin between the two teams to 2½ games.

Following with championship vision sent a glimmering, applications for reservations for the world series continue to pour in by the thousands. The St. Louis Americans' headquarters, Robert Quinn, business manager of the club, announced that the request have been 50,000 and that the club is now in a position to handle the influx of fans.

And don't forget, Shocker is at his best in the pinch.

STANDINGS

OUTING TOMORROW

The stage is set for the monster outing at the Lowell Fish and Game association at Willow Dale park tomorrow. Tickets have been purchased freely, and with good reason. The members of the association are likely to have entertainment facilities at the park. The tickets are about 13¢ and are expected to have every county town represented as was the case last year. ## BIG CROWD WILL HEAR GALLI-CURCI SING

The audience which will hear Galli-Curci sing at the Memorial Auditorium on Friday evening, October 6, promises to be a record breaking one for this part of New England. As printed from the seating plans of the architects there were 3,685 tickets to sell and at this date every indication points to a sell-out.

The management of the concert is very much pleased with the interest shown in the advance sale of tickets through the mail. In over twenty concerts given in four different cities in the past three years the best advance mail order sale was for Gertrude Farrar in Lawrence last November. On that occasion a mail order sale of two weeks preceded the public sale. The total of mail orders was $1,100 and the remaining $23,000 worth of tickets were sold in a day and a half when the box office opened.

The plan for the Galli-Curci concert calls for a mail order sale of two weeks and a public sale of two weeks. The first week of mail orders closed Saturday night and showed receipts of $124,000, or nearly $150 more than the previous best record made in three weeks instead of one. Since last Friday the daily receipts for tickets have been more than $300 a day and increasing each day.

The Rogers Hall school, which does not open until September 23 or five days after the public sale has purchased a ticket for every girl who will enroll. A single day's mail from Lawrence brought nearly $125 from that city. Orders have been received from Nashua, Haverhill and Andover, where the concert has been advertised. Beginning today the concert drive will be pushed in Melrose, Malden, Wakefield, Reading, Woburn and Winchester. The most distant order to date has come from Portsmouth, N. H.

An unusual feature of the sale has been the number of people who have left cash at Challfoux's to pay for tickets when they go on sale Saturday morning. In no case have these people been given tickets for the rule about the public sale opening Saturday morning is being rigidly adhered to. The only tickets going out in the meantime are to those people who bought through the mail. Friday last Mr. Kaiser and his assistants took in exactly $262 cash from people who were content to leave their money at the store to pay for tickets as soon as they are released for public sale.

The magnificent response to the enterprise which brought a Galli-Curci engagement to Lowell has pleased the manager of it immensely. Not only have many individuals but nearly every club and organization that is keen to promote any thing good for the city have offered Mr. Donovan their support in making the concert and "Galli-Curci Day" a red letter one.

REGISTRATION AT GIRLS' CITY CLUB

Advance registration for vocational classes will be taken Thursday evening, Sept. 21, at 7:30 at the Girls' City Club. Classes in the following subjects will be held Monday and Thursday nights, beginning the first week in October—dressmaking, for beginners and advanced pupils, millinery, home hygiene and care of the sick, and embroidery. Winter gowns will be made, and the latest fall hats will be fashioned. Fancy work of various kinds will be taught in the embroidery class and Christmas gifts will be made. The home nursing course is the standardized and Red Cross Nursing course of fifteen lessons, for which a certificate is given upon the satisfactory completion of the lessons.

Registration day for other classes will be announced later, but anyone desiring one of the following classes may leave her name at the club office, lamp-shade making under Mrs. G. B. Calson, Thursday evenings, beginning October 16. A Banjo-Mandolin club for class instruction, under the direction of Mr. Hovey will be formed in October. A class in interior home decoration for Monday evenings is being arranged. This class will be given under the State University Extension department.

Classes in any subject for which there is a sufficient demand are formed at any time.

BREAKDOWN DELAYS CAR SERVICE

Service on the street railway was suspended for fifteen minutes yesterday afternoon beginning about 4:45 when the auxiliary generator at the power house on Middlesex street broke down.

The first sign of trouble occurred at 5:30 o'clock yesterday morning at the power house when the big 2600 h. p. generator burned a bearing. From then on during the day power was furnished by the auxiliary 2000 h. p. generator. This turbine did yeoman service all day till about 4:45 when it was necessary for the workmen to shut off the power so that they might make a few minor repairs. The shutdown lasted 15 minutes and during that time service was held up on all the lines in the city. Two generator breakdowns in one day is a very unusual occurrence.

BAD FOR PIGS BUT ALL RIGHT FOR HUMANS

Dominick Blas, who was arrested by the liquor squad last night when they made a raid on his house and found a flourishing moonshine plant in full operation, was arraigned in district court this morning on the charge of illegal keeping. At the request of the defendant the case was continued to Oct. 4 and the court set bonds at $100. The officers, swooped down on the man's house and seized a still, a quantity of moonshine in jugs and casks, a condenser and about 200 gallons of prepared mash. The mash, according to the officers, was guaranteed to kill pigs but was good enough for some people to drink. And then it was worth money to him as liquor but wasn't when used as feed for his pigs. When Dominick refused to give the mash to his swine, the officers quickly destroyed it. Blas, 35, is a native of Italy and lives at 1011 N. Broadway. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Wall street's approval of President Harding's veto message on the soldier bonus bill and its lack of serious concern over the Near Eastern situation, was reflected in the strong tone at the opening of today's stock market. Prices advanced steadily over a broad base on comparatively light dealings. Oil shares led the advance, Standard Oil of New Jersey being pushed up three points in response to the announcement of a new dividend. The report of a new dividend of one cent per share was also recorded by Standard Oil of California, Pan-American, Royal Dutch and Cosden. Equipments, motors, copper, zinc, public utilities and other securities also participated in the advance, the gains ranging from large fractions to nearly two points. Trading in rails was less active but Omaha and Illinois Central moved a point higher and Union Pacific, Southern Railway and Atchafalaya improved fractionally. American Ice, National Biscuit and Coca Cola stood out in the specialty list.

DEPORTATION WARRANT IS CANCELLED

Because of quick action on the part of Lawyer Frank Goldman and Congressman Rogers, a deportation warrant, which had been issued against Miss Pauline Kaplan, a young woman resident of this city, who is now at the state hospital in Worcester, has been cancelled, and it is expected that within a few days the young woman will return to the home of relatives in this city.

Miss Kaplan, who is 23 years of age, arrived in this country from Poland on May 21, 1917, and for a few years was employed as a clerk for a relative. Last March after being seized with a temporary mental attack, she was committed to the state hospital in Worcester by order of the local district court. Inasmuch as she was not a citizen of this country, deportation proceedings were started and a hearing was held. At the close of the hearing a deportation warrant was issued by the federal commissioner of immigration.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN IN EAST CHELMSFORD

Fire, believed to have been caused by bon thieves, destroyed the barn of John Lyman in Grahams' street, East Chelmsford, early this morning. The blaze also consumed several tons of hay, while several ducks were burned to death. Tools and other farm implements, which were in the building, were also destroyed. It was only through efficient work on the part of the East Chelmsford fire department that the home, which is adjoining the barn, was saved.

The fire was discovered at about 4.30 o'clock by a member of the Lyman family, who sent in a hurried call to the East Chelmsford fire department, but when the firefighters reached the premises they found the building ablaze and realized that efforts to put out the fire would prove fruitless, so they directed their work toward the home, which was being threatened. The side of the building and the roof caught fire several times, but in each instance the firemen succeeded in putting out the blaze.

DENIES PROHIBITION BROUGHT BOOTLEGGING

NORTH BERWICK, Me., Sept. 20.—The cry that prohibition has brought bootlegging is not well supported, Mrs. Althea G. Quimby of North Berwick, president of the Maine Prohibition League, declared at the annual convention which was opened here today.

"We had bootlegging under license, perhaps as prolific as under prohibition," she continued, "because of appetite and avarice on the part of the people. We have a dangerous home brew. But we are told that it is on the decline. We rejoice, that notwithstanding the frantic efforts to defeat 'dry' congressmen and other 'dry' officials in the recent primary election in the several states, the cause of the prohibition is not in danger. The present dry sentiment of congress. The results in our state were most satisfactory."

B. & M. CARSHOP STRIKE

Early Settlement of Strike
Looked for by the Feder-
ated Crafts

If plans of the executive board of the Federated Crafts of the Boston & Maine Carshops in Billerica are carried out, it is expected that the carshop strike, which has been in effect for several weeks, will soon be a thing of the past. The committee is now endeavoring to have a conference with officials of the road and it is felt that if both bodies can be brought together the difficulties will be ironed out and the men will return to work.

This was one of the announcements of the members of the crafts, which was held in the Colonial theatre, Middlesex street, by Edward McMillan of the Blacksmiths' union, who is also a member of the executive board of the crafts, who attended the recent conference at Chicago. Mr. McMillan outlined the work of the delegates at the conference and in the course of his remarks he informed his hearers that the so-called Willard-Warfield and Jewell plan for the strike settlement has been accepted by the railroad. This plan consists mainly of all men returning to work to their former positions which they held June 30 at the present rate of pay, with the exception of those who have been found guilty of acts of violence. These men may be dropped from the payroll of the companies, if the officials see fit.

Mr. McMillan stated that the Boston & Maine was one of the roads that refused to adopt the plan, but he further stated that negotiations were being made for a conference between members of the executive board and President Eustis. Vice President and General Manager Pollock and Superintendent Wiggins of the motor power department, and he said he expected good results. The other speaker at last evening's meeting was Fred Boland of New York, international vice president of the Blacksmiths' union.

Walter H. Chandler, chairman of the local federation, who for the past week has been securing the state in an endeavor to raise funds for the strikers, stated this morning that today and tomorrow his time will be taken up in this city. He will parade the principal streets of Lowell with a hurdy gurdy, while some of his companions will pass the hat around. On Friday the committee will go to Lawrence and Saturday will be spent in Salem. Tomorrow evening a dance will be held in Associate hall for the benefit of the strikers.

SALARIES INCREASED
The members of the clerical force employed in the city auditor's department were pleasantly surprised when notification was sent today that they had received increases in pay. Chief Clerk James T. Dunfee received a raise of $300 a year. Miss Eleanor M. Churchill a like amount, and Miss Edith C. Donohue $200 a year. In making the recommendations for the salary increases, Auditor Daniel E. Martin stated that it was only a step to bring the scale in his office up to that of other offices. He made the recommendations and they were approved by the mayor. Mr. Dunfee will now receive $1200 a year, Miss Churchill, $1000 and Miss Donohue, $1200.

14 Killed and 17 Injured in Train Wreck

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Fourteen persons were killed and 17 injured in the wreck yesterday of a north bound passenger train at Empalme Gonzalez, it was announced by the National Railways executive offices. The wreck was caused by a washout. Other bodies may be discovered when the debris is cleared, the bulletin says. Henry B. Burton of Atlixco, state of Puebla, and J. D. Lesley, of an unnamed Texas city, only American victims, are said to have been seriously injured.

Bodies of 13 Suicides Found

NIKKO, Japan, Aug. 31.—(Mail)—(By the Associated Press)—The bodies of 13 suicides were found in the basin of the Kegan waterfalls in Nikko last week. Policemen and private detectives keep watch on the platform near the foot whence the waterfall drops to a deep ravine, but in spite of this guard the beautiful Kegan claims a large number of victims every year.

LOWELL DISTRICT COURT

Men Engage in Fierce and Bloody Struggle Over
Widow—Other Cases

Bonds of $1000 were set by Judge Enright in district court this morning for the appearance of Dolphus Briere in court for trial on Sept. 23 for assault and battery on Charles Mazzullo on the evening of Aug. 9. As a result of this attack Mazzullo has lost his left eye and had eight stitches taken in his face.

According to the police, the trouble occurred because of the jealousy of Briere, who thought Mazzullo was becoming too strongly entrenched in the affections of a mutual friend, a widow. Both men had been cutting on this woman for some time and were good friends up to the night of the assault. On the night in question the police say that Mazzullo went to the woman's house, where he was followed by Briere.

A discussion arose between the two men as they were standing in the darkened hallway and the police say that Briere struck Mazzullo. There was quite a battle and in the melee the latter had his face ripped open and lost his left eye. He does not know what Briere hit him with and Briere says that he only used his fist.

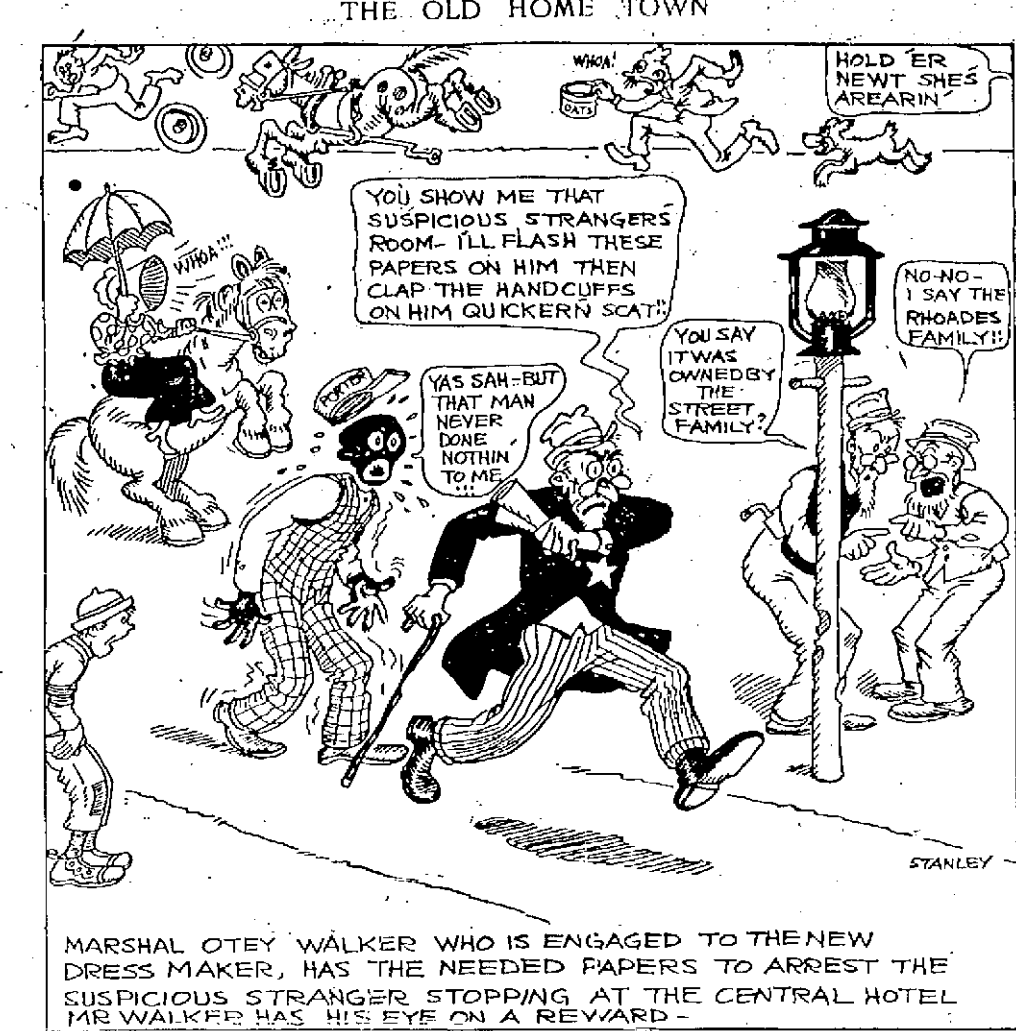

Mazzullo was taken to the Corporation hospital, where he was given preliminary treatment and eight stitches taken in the wound. He was then taken to the Eye and Ear Infirmary in Boston, where he was treated for the loss of his eye.

The affray was not reported to the police till a week ago when Mazzullo appeared at the police station and told his story to the superintendent. He assigned Inspector John F. Walsh to the case and he picked up Briere on the street the next night. At the station, when questioned, the police say that Briere told the same story as the complainant about the affair but said he used no weapon other than his fist.

Direct Sentence For Non-Support
A direct sentence of four months in the house of correction was handed to Alfred Beland when he was found guilty by the court of the charge of non-support of his wife and daughter. The court promised yesterday to take drastic measures in these cases and kept his word today. According to the story told by the man's wife, Beland works occasionally but the wife never receives a cent of money as he spends it all for liquor. She told the court that she had not received a penny from her husband for the last four weeks and owes in large rent and grocery bills now because of this man's self-indulgence and laziness.

Owing to the absence of counsel in Boston, the cases of Petronella Kullikowski and John Snowdell, both charged with assault and battery, were held over to Sept. 23 and 24 respectively. The case of Alfred Theriault, charged with non-support, was held over to Sept. 24.

FIRE ALARMS
There were two alarms late yesterday afternoon for automobile fires. The first was from box 83 at 5:22 o'clock for a slight blaze in McNabb's laundry truck in Perry street and the other was from box 219 at 5:52 o'clock for a slight fire in a automobile lot in front of 552 Middlesex st.

STREET RAILWAY MEN LOCAL TEXTILE STRIKE INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENT

BACK ON THE JOB
Most of the laborers of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., who struck for more pay last Monday, returned to their work this morning after being granted an increase of five cents an hour. Those who did not report for work this morning were paid off this afternoon at the office of the company and their places will be filled by others.

The men were receiving 35 cents an hour and they asked an increase of 10 cents an hour. Upon the refusal of the company to grant their demand they stopped work. Yesterday a committee of the strikers conferred with Manager Lee and last evening, Mr. Lee announced that the best the company could do was to grant an increase of five cents an hour. Mr. Lee stated today that all but about 20 of the men accepted the increase and reported for work this morning. The others, he said, are through with the company and their places will be filled.

FUNERALS
MACHES—The funeral of Henry W. Maches took place from The Funeral Church, 236 Westford street, yesterday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. Percy E. Thomas, pastor of the First Congregational church. Burial was in the family lot in the Edison cemetery. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker George W. Healey.

ELWIN—The funeral services of Mrs. Mary A. Erwin were held yesterday afternoon at her home, 120 Fulton street, and were largely attended. Rev. James M. Craig, pastor emeritus of the First Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. Nathaniel W. May, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated. There were many beautiful floral tributes. The bearers were John Robinson, Edwin Fendley, Andrew Sample, Garret Holt, Theophilus Caldwell and Frank Dane. Burial took place in the family lot in the Edison cemetery, where the funeral services were held by Rev. Mr. Matthews. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker James P. O'Donnell & Sons.

FUNERAL NOTICE
LEACH—Died Sept. 19, Mrs. Rosa Leach. Funeral will take place on Friday morning at 8 o'clock from the funeral parlors of Undertakers M. H. McDonough & Sons, 125 Central street. Mass of requiem will be sung at St. Peter's church at 9 o'clock. Burial will take place in St. Patrick's cemetery. The funeral arrangements will be in charge of Undertakers M. H. McDonough & Sons.

PERKINS—Died in this city, Sept. 18, at the Lowell General Hospital, Mrs. Elsie Perkins, nee Dineen, died this morning at the home of her parents, 116 Wightman street, No. Chelmsford, at 8 o'clock. At St. John's church, No. Chelmsford, at 9 o'clock a funeral mass will be celebrated. Burial will take place in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, Lowell. Funeral arrangements in charge of Undertakers O'Connell & Fay.

DEATHS
LEACH—Mrs. Rosa Leach, an old resident of this city and an attendant of St. Peter's church, died this morning in this city. She is survived by one brother, Terrence McCusker of Lowell. ## RUTH WILL VISIT LOWELL EXCELLENT CONCERTS

Brilliant Yankee Outfielder to Be Guest of Local Xaverian Brothers in October

When Christopher Columbus discovered America, the then known world was won to marvel; when Man-of-War established unprecedented turf records, trackmen gasped, but when Babe Ruth, the bustling brawler of the world was revealed, and Babe Ruth is coming to Lowell, and he is coming, it presents plans materialize, very soon after his present season with the New York Yankees is finished.

Babe is to visit this city as the guest of the Xaverian Brothers, the teaching fraternity of St. Patrick's boys' school. An invitation will be despatched to Ruth shortly and it is practically a certainty that he will accept, for the idol of the baseball world is a product of an Xaverian school, having spent almost 13 years of his early life in the care of St. Mary's Industrial home in Baltimore, Md., where the brothers maintain one of their oldest institutions. At present, some of the brothers who were instrumental in his upbringing, the Babe are stationed in Lowell and for this reason his presence here practically is assured.

The local brothers can recount some interesting anecdotes concerning the boyhood career of the famous home-run king. They tell of his frailty as a boy of 13 years, with all the indications to mischief of a boy of that age. Always athletically inclined, the future star of the diamond represented St. Mary's in sport, but never broke any records or gave any indication of ever doing so. In his 13th year, a scout of the Baltimore Orioles in the international league decided to give Ruth a tryout as a pitcher. He made good almost at once, and under the careful tutelage of Ben Egan, at that time star catcher for the Orioles, Babe became a figure in the game. It is to Ben Egan, say the brothers, that Ruth owes a great deal of credit for his baseball successes. The big backstop coached him to perfection and served as a safety valve when the stout twister felt impuduous to hit.

From Baltimore Ruth went to the Boston Red Sox, where his major league career was launched. He continued as a great pitcher until the management began to recognize his hitting ability and transferred him to the outfield. Babe has been a big success since. With Boston and later with the Yankees, he has amassed a fortune of more than four figures, but with all his prominence, wealth and ability, the Babe remains as unchanged in character as when he was a member of St. Mary's. As often as the opportunity presents itself, the Yankee right fielder entrains for Baltimore and the home of the brothers where he mingles with the youngsters, shows them how to throw curves and hit home runs. He is a star catcher for the Orioles, Babe is a star pitcher for the Yankees, and the kids are likewise favorites of present every boy in St. Patrick's anxiously anticipates his coming here. The exact date has not been fixed, but will be announced when the 1923 world series is concluded in October.

MATRIMONIAL
Mr. Arthur Monty and Miss Antoinette Chaput, two well known young residents of Centralville, were married this morning at a nuptial mass celebrated at St. Louis' church at 8 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. J. B. Labossiere. During the mass appropriate hymns were sung by the Children of Mary, soloists, choir, of which the bride was a member. At the offertory Mr. Clifford Forrest of Lynn rendered an "Ave of a Healing" for his client in a case which was tried before Mr. Kennard on September 8.

The case was one in which Mary Quinn, of 16 Stanley street, claimed she received injuries while at work in the Massachusetts mills on April 24 of this year. She is said to have fallen from the floor and sustained injuries that incapacitated her for working. She was awarded $12 per week from the time of the accident until she is able to return to work again. The amount is two-thirds of her weekly salary. Gray Chenoweth of Boston, of the law firm of Sawyer, Hardy, Stone and Morrison appeared for the American Mutual Liability Insurance company. Attorney Joseph P. Donahue was associated with Attorney Reynolds in trying this case.

OPEN AUDITORIUM FOR PUBLIC INSPECTION
According to Mayor George H. Brown the Memorial Auditorium will be thrown open to the public for inspection on Friday and Saturday. The mayor said this morning that he had ordered the new building to be open all day Friday and Saturday evening, while on Sunday the building will be open most of the day.

It is also possible that music will be provided on one of the days at least, although the mayor said today he was not sure this would be done. It had been suggested that a day afternoon and evening and that the public be allowed to dance free of charge.

SOUSA GUEST OF LOWELL ROTARY CLUB
John Philip Sousa, bandmaster and composer, whose famous and popular organization gave two excellent concerts in Lowell yesterday, was a dinner guest of the Lowell Rotary clubmen yesterday. A warm reception, shook hands with everybody present and gave the Rotarians one of the most delightful talks that they have listened to for some time. The bandmaster was in rare form, as usual, bubbling over with jokes, news and snappy descriptions of world sights and topics. The Rotarians made the visitor an honorary member of the club before his departure. He expressed sincere pleasure at being able to come to Lowell at this time. He was introduced by Ralph Irvine.

Mr. Irvine denied that he intended to give a $500 address for a 50-cent luncheon, but the Rotarians told him to go right ahead. He promptly offered for their approval stories of travels in European lands, always with humorous touches that kept the audience smiling. The clubmen sang for the bandmaster, too, "America" being the last number of the program arranged in honor of the musician—Rotarian.

Sousa's Band 'Delights' Capacity Audiences in High School Auditorium

Nearly 4000 men, women and children yesterday afternoon and last evening heard Lieutenant Commander John Philip Sousa and his band give two concerts in the auditorium of the new high school. The number is set at 4000 because the hall has a seating capacity of more than 1800 and at each concert it was necessary to place more than 100 chairs on either end of the large stage.

Accompanying artists were Miss Marjorie Moody, soprano, and Miss Caroline Thomas, violinist.

The program followed last evening was typically Sousa, it brought in many of his best known and snazziest as encore selections, which, by the way, were freely given and it seemed that the audience enjoyed "El Capitán," "Bullets and Bayonets," "U. S. Field Artillery," and "Stars and Stripes Forever" fully as much as the more diversified program numbers.

After so many years of training under the critical baton of Commander Sousa it is to be expected that the band instantly will comply with his every nod, but although this is accepted as a matter of fact, one cannot fail to be impressed at the manner in which the 55 musicians solidify their tones and perform in concert to the expressive twirl of his baton. It is the last word in solo numbers, and of course, secured now by the director with a minimum of effort on his part.

After a colorful overture, "The Red Sarafan," Mr. John Dolan again showed his beautiful control with his baton. The last word in solo numbers, and of course, secured now by the director with a minimum of effort on his part.

Sousa never has failed to embody his own impressions of the beautiful and unusual things of the world in many of his compositions and so it is in "Leaves From My Notebook," depicting "The Gentle Hostess." The Camp Fire Girls, although this is strictly 1922 material.

Miss Moody sang beautifully the "Ah Fors a Lul" aria from La Traviata and for an encore gave Sousa's "The American Girl." Miss Moody will be accompanied by an accompanying artist on the band's last visit to the city two years ago.

In "A Bouquet of Beloved Inspiration," the composer-director has embodied themes that no believer in universal brotherhood can believe in music lovers, including the beautiful lit of Mendelssohn's Spring Song and the majestic William Tell overture.

"The Gallant Seventh" is one of the director's most recent masterpieces and was played with inimitable spirit. The band was taxed considerably in the closing selection, a transcription of the cowboy breakdown, "Turkey in the Straw."

Miss Thomas, violinist, played three times and was instantly appreciated by her audience. She showed both skill and temperament in marked degree and her playing was enhanced by Miss Bambrick's harp accompaniment.

In the afternoon the program was of an educational nature throughout for the benefit of many school pupils who attended. The quality of the various instruments was brought out in novel ways and one member of the organization gave an interesting explanation of each.

The appearance of the noted bandmaster was due to the efforts of Albert Edmund Brown, local manager for the Messrs. Steinhart.
